and exploring it with him is the best”

P&O Cruises are a brand for all ages, but they're especially great for families. With five family-friendly ships in the fleet, you can discover new destinations with your loved ones and take part in exciting activities on board. Savour new Mediterranean flavours, uncover Caribbean history, or sit under the stars as your ship winds through the captivating fjords; whatever you decide to do with your time away, a P&O Cruises holiday is sure to bring you fun-filled family adventures as you create a million moments that matter.

Start planning your dream family escape with P&O Cruises

Wallace & Gromit set sail on Arvia and Iona

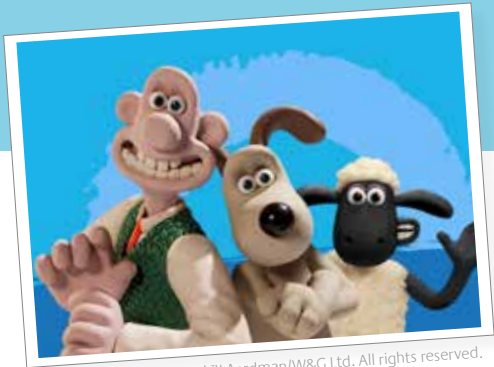

Your favourite film characters have packed their bags and are ready to join you on your holiday. Wallace & Gromit and Shaun the Sheep will be setting sail on board Arvia and Iona and bringing lots of exciting experiences to the table... Claystations, mask decorating, watching your little groovers busting a move on the dance floor, and having your photo taken with Wallace & Gromit; there's family fun for everyone to enjoy.

Calling Mission Control

New and exclusive to Arvia, the immersive Mission Control escape room will give you the chance to navigate Arvia II, the fictitious research submarine, through underwater challenges. Your mission is to help Dr Ryan crack the code and graduate from Arvia's Marine Research Institute. Tackle a series of live-action puzzles in groups of up to 10 and embark on this exhilarating expedition. The question is, will it be mission accomplished?

Family adventures on Azura

Azura is another much-loved family-friendly member of the fleet. Soak in the sun or join your children for a splash-tastic time in one of the pools. Sit under the stars and watch your film favourites with open-air screenings at SeaScreen. Prepare to be dazzled by sparkling shows and matinee performances. Whether you're looking for an action-packed adventure or a relaxing family escape, Azura can give you the best of both worlds.

WELCOME

Cruising is well and truly back on the horizon for many, including the team here at Bolsover Cruise Club. Many of our colleagues have been enjoying travelling again, and in this edition, you can read about their experiences of what it's like to cruise in these current times. Take a look at the 'What Cruising Looks Like Now' and 'A New Dawn' features to find out more.

Our main feature focuses on multi-generational cruising. As a family business, this is something that is very much rooted in our DNA. While I might be biased, there are real benefits to booking this type of holiday - see if we can convince you!

In this edition, we also take a closer look at some of the lesser-known cruise ports you might have spotted on your European itineraries and, further afield, we offer our advice on how to spend 36 hours in Singapore.

As the countdown to Arvia's launch continues, we speak to Local Food Hero Shivi Ramoutar about the Caribbean cuisine she'll be bringing to the new P&O Cruises ship. You will also find a look at Iona in numbers, and an exclusive interview with Captain Hugh Maynard, who will be at the helm of Ambassador Cruise Line's Ambience.

I hope you enjoy reading.

Yours sincerely

CUNARD REVEALS DINING OPTIONS ON BOARD QUEEN ANNE

Details of the dining options that will be available on Queen Anne, the new Cunard ship due to launch in 2024, have been revealed. The 3,000-passenger ship will feature a total of 15 venues, offering guests even greater choice ranging from fine dining experiences to casual meals, light bites and spontaneous indulgences.

As is the case with the whole Cunard fleet, guests dining on Queen Anne will be allocated a dedicated restaurant depending on their accommodation category. Each one will serve breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Seven of the dining options have never been seen before on a Cunard ship. Among them is The Steakhouse & Grill, which will serve expertly prepared steaks and a selection of paired wines. Guests will also be able to enjoy a Mediterranean restaurant, serving both familiar and unexpected dishes. There will also be an Indian restaurant onboard, as well as a Pan-Asian restaurant, Wellness Café, Gelateria and Deck Grill.

However, many of the Cunard fleet favourites will be returning, including The Queens Grill, which represents the epitome of luxurious dining. Princess Grill will also be available, as will the intimate Britannia Club, while pub classics will be served up in the Golden Lion. Britannia Restaurant prides itself on offering a generous menu, meticulously paired with a selection of wines.

Whichever Queen Anne dining option passengers choose, Cunard promises to deliver the premium White Star Service for which the cruise line has become renowned.

SEABOURN PURSUIT REACHES MAJOR CONSTRUCTION MILESTONE

The latest ship to join the Seabourn fleet, Seabourn Pursuit, has reached a significant construction milestone as the hull is relocated for final outfitting. The ship's hull was moved 1,200 nautical miles to the T. Mariotti shipyard in Genoa, Italy and marks the latest step towards completion.

Seabourn Pursuit is scheduled to launch in 2023. She will become the cruise line's second purpose-built expedition ship - and sister to Seabourn Venture. Featuring a number of advanced technologies and the expertise of a 26-person team, passengers will be able to make the most of their destinations.

Complimentary expedition offerings will be available on board, including trips on Zodiac boats, hikes, nature walks, scuba diving, and snorkelling. Two custom-built submarines will also be available to guests at selected destinations.

Josh Leibowitz, President of Seabourn, said: "This is such an exciting milestone as this means we are one step closer to the completion of Seabourn Pursuit.

"I am grateful for everyone who has been working so hard to get to this point, and I look forward to seeing her come more to life in the months ahead as she enters this next phase of the construction process."

FRED. OLSEN PLANS FLEET REUNION IN MADEIRA

Fred. Olsen will hold the first reunion of its new-look fleet next year, when all four of the ships set to come together in Funchal, Madeira. The event, planned for 9 November 2023, will see Bolette, Borealis, Balmoral and Braemar set sail on four different cruises following a quayside fiesta. This will be the third time the cruise line has held a fleet reunion.

Peter Deer, Managing Director of Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, revealed that the celebration looks set to be a momentous occasion for everyone involved.

"Of course, while our Fleet in Funchal event will undoubtedly be a highlight, each ship will be embarking on its own adventure, offering guests the chance to enjoy warmer climates during the British winter," he continued.

"Whether you would like to island hop to discover many of the Canary Islands, experience the diverse nature of the Azores, immerse yourself in the Moroccan culture or explore many historical sites of Spain and Portugal, there will be plenty to delight your inner explorer in the days leading up to our special celebration."

WHAT CRUISING LOOKS LIKE NOW

There's very little in this big wide world of ours that is identical to how it was before this virus hit. But we have all had to adapt, and the cruise industry is no different. Editor of Into the Blue, Emma, recently embarked on a short break on board P&O Cruises Britannia, and here she tells us about her experience of cruising for the first time since covid.

When I booked this holiday - what would be my eighth with P&O Cruises - I wasn't quite sure what to expect. I'd resigned myself to the fact that cruising wasn't going to be what I was used to, but decided that, for the first time since 2019, it was time to set sail.

I'll happily admit there were times when I questioned whether it would all be worth it for a three-night jaunt to Zeebrugge. Ever the travel addict, I decided that no matter how much nasal swabbing and form filling was required of me, this holiday was going to happen. And I'm so glad it did.

Lido Pools

Armed with paperwork ranging from my covid vaccination certificate to e-tickets, the boarding process began in Southampton. In the spirit of total honesty, this was the part of the cruise I was looking forward to the least. Usually, the terminal is a hive of excitement, but with the requirement to produce a negative covid test performed at port before being allowed to board, this was replaced with a degree of uncertainty.

That said, I found the whole process to be very efficient, taking a little over an hour from parking the car to stepping into my cabin. I'd urge everyone to stick to their allocated boarding time - arrivals are staggered to manage the flow of people, it's not a ploy to give some passengers priority access to the buffet!

Once on board, my key card was waiting at my cabin, where I arrived to find the door sealed with a sanitisation label. One of the biggest differences I noticed was the muster drill. The days of standing out on a windy deck, lifejacket in hand are long gone - all we had to do was register at our muster station and watch an in-cabin safety video. Job done!

Entrance to Horizon Restaurant

CONCLUSION

Is cruising the same as it was pre-covid? Not quite. Does it in any way affect your overall enjoyment of your holiday? Not at all. And it seems I'm not alone. With every stroll along the deck I could hear families, couples, groups of friends planning their next cruise.

PCR, LFT, PLF are all acronyms we've had to familiarise ourselves with over the past couple of years. But, as soon as you sit out on deck looking out over the sparkling sea, all those acronyms soon become a distant memory. The only one I would suggest committing to your memory is FOMO - or fear of missing out - because cruising is well and truly back. And boy has it been worth the wait.

ONBOARD POLICIES

Mask wearing was optional throughout the ship, unless you were visiting the medical centre, Headliners Theatre or The Studio. That said, staff wore masks at all times. Food and drink is no longer permitted in the theatre, but I could just about manage 45 minutes without a pina colada and slice of pizza. Hand washing is actively encouraged outside the Horizon Restaurant, where most items are no longer self-service. There's also table service only in the bars and cafes.

Booking for the shows was easy using the My Holiday app, which is more of a website than an app, but worked just as well. We joined a virtual queue to dine in the Peninsular Restaurant; a buzzer notified us when our table was ready and while the wait times were a little longer than I would have liked, I can think of worse ways to kill time than sipping a drink in the Crow's Nest!

LOOKING FORWARD

My cruising addiction well and truly revived, I'll be taking another trip on Iona in just a few weeks' time. Since my short break on Britannia, P&O Cruises announced changes to their testing requirements; instead of being tested at port, I'll need to take an at-home lateral flow test (which I've already ordered and received), register the result and be issued a Fit to Fly certificate to show at port. At least this time, I'll be able to make the 220-mile trip to Southampton safe in the knowledge I can board once I arrive.

IONA

IN NUMBERS

Iona might be the youngest of the P&O Cruises fleet, but what she lacks in years she most certainly makes up for in magnificence. We recently spent a week on board, when we just about scratched the surface of everything Iona has to offer.

Sometimes it's best to let the numbers do the talking...

STATEROOMS

Whether you see your cabin as a place to simply rest your head after a busy day, or your own private retreat where you can watch the world go by, Iona has it all. Balcony cabins are a firm favourite, but window seats in the sea view staterooms mean you won't miss out on those incredible views.

- 121 suites
- 1,496 balconies
- 174 sea view
- 819 inside

BALCONY CABIN

Iona SkyDome

West End-style productions in Headliners Theatre, celebrity acts in The Limelight Club - there's no shortage of glitz and glamour on Iona. The SkyDome comes to life once night falls, and if you'd rather enjoy a spot of lounge music or comedy, there's a venue for that, too.

10

CHANCE OF THE KIDS GETTING BORED

Teens can hang out at Scene, while little ones can be entertained at The Reef - Iona has something for all ages. Face painting sessions, magician workshops and family fitness workouts were just some of the activities during our cruise.

TOP TIP

Book the sport and deck game facilities well in advance (at least the day before) to avoid waiting during peak times.

RESTAURANTS

Sindhu

From elegant sit-down meals to snacks that satisfy those midnight munchies, Iona serves up plenty of options. There's also more speciality restaurants than you can shake your key card at, perfect for those special occasions, or 'just because'.

WE RECOMMEND

Whilst all the food and restaurants were amazing, our personal guilty pleasure was the snack-size fish and chips at Hook, Line & Vinegar, located in The Quays on Deck 8.

INTRODUCING AMBIENCE CAPTAIN HUGH MAYNARD

It's not every day that a new British cruise line comes around. Ambassador is the first to launch since 2010 and their flagship, Ambience, recently set sail on her maiden voyage. In this exclusive interview, we speak to the first captain of Ambience, Captain Hugh Maynard, about his life on board and what guests can expect from Ambassador Cruise Line.

Captain Hugh Maynard

WHAT PROTOCOLS DO YOU NEED TO GO THROUGH WHEN CAPTAINING A SHIP FOR THE FIRST TIME? IS THERE ANYTHING YOU PARTICULARLY LOOK FORWARD (OR NOT LOOK FORWARD) TO?

Luckily, being a Captain for the first time is not being thrown in at the deep end. A lot of training and mentoring goes into the process so once we're let loose with a ship, we've already had the opportunity to manoeuvre the ship many times as Staff Captain and as Juniors under the watchful eye of the Captain. Also these days simulator training is taken, so you can practise in realistic conditions, but you can't do any damage.

Ship handling is personally my favourite part of the job, especially when it all goes to plan, but you always have to have a plan B at hand.

The worst part of the job is the paperwork side of things. My focus is always the safety of the crew and guests onboard the ship, but the 21st century has brought with it an endless stream of bureaucracy and red tape which wasn't there when I first went to sea in the late seventies!

WHAT DOES AN AVERAGE DAY LOOK LIKE FOR THE CAPTAIN OF A SHIP?

I'm usually on the Bridge before sunrise, an hour or so before the ship enters a port, liaising with the pilot and the port authorities to make sure everything is in order before we make our arrival alongside.

When the pilot boards the ship outside the harbour, we have a discussion on the Bridge about the manoeuvre and nearly always we'll agree that I'll have control and drive the ship. The pilot will give advice, if needed, about the port and any unusual tidal influences, new obstructions, traffic movement etc although these days there aren't many new ports in my book!

Ship handling is personally my favourite part of the job, especially when it all goes to plan but you always have to have a plan B at hand.

Once I've got the ship safely alongside, tied up, and the officials are onboard doing all the clearance, I'll go and check my emails. There are usually a lot of them in the inbox to work through and that usually takes about two hours of my day, then I'm free to walk the ship and chat with our guests.

I always like to have a little walk along the quayside to see what the ship is looking like on the outside and check the draft marks to check that my Chief Officer is calculating our stability correctly. In addition to these routines, we also have daily inspections, meetings and drills to carry out, so there's always something to attend to.

After lunch, I usually like to take a stroll ashore, I share this relaxation time equally with my Staff Captain as one of us has to be on board at all times. I know I'm the Captain, but I like my Staff Captain to get ashore as much as possible too, it's a good way to de-stress.

When I'm back on board, in the afternoon it's usually not too long before we depart, so it's another quick check of the dreaded emails to keep up to date, and then onto the Bridge to do the whole operation in reverse before we leave.

Once safely outside and the pilot is happily on his way back inside the port in his boat, I'll hand the watch over to my Officers. I have two Deck Officers, each on a four-hour watch around the clock along with two lookouts.

After I've left my night orders for the watchkeepers and left the Bridge, my time is my own until the whole process is repeated the next day.

AMBASSADOR IS THE FIRST BRITISH CRUISE LINE TO LAUNCH IN OVER A DECADE. WHAT DO YOU THINK CONSTITUTES A TRULY BRITISH CRUISING EXPERIENCE, AND HOW DOES AMBASSADOR DELIVER IT?

Ambience Show Lounge

Ambassador's ships Ambience and Ambition embrace that truly British cruising experience. Teak decks, attention to detail and great service onboard, wonderfully decorated and traditional areas and an endless variety of food offerings from around the world.

Our guests have a desire to travel and our ships will provide that home-from-home feeling. They'll offer friendly crew creating a 'community at sea', whilst giving all guests room to breathe and that feeling of familiarity that will welcome them back time and time again.

AMBASSADOR CRUISE LINE WILL SAIL FROM A NUMBER OF REGIONAL DEPARTURE PORTS ACROSS THE UK. WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO OFFER THE OPTION OF NO-FLY SAILINGS TO YOUR GUESTS?

Ambassador's aim is to provide the holiday our guests deserve and have worked hard for. They're predominantly 50-plus and are looking for a stress-free experience.

We will be able to sail from ports including Newcastle, Dundee, Belfast, Liverpool, Bristol and Falmouth, so widespread across the UK, making our cruises a lot more accessible to those who may not find London Tilbury as easy to travel to as others.

WHICH OF THE ITINERARIES PLANNED FOR AMBIENCE ARE YOU MOST LOOKING FORWARD TO SAILING? IS THERE ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD YOU HAVEN'T YET VISITED, BUT WOULD LIKE TO?

I'm a mountain nut and never happier when I'm roaming around in the hills, so anywhere with vertical bits of land suits me.

I'm originally an Essex boy so it's pretty flat where I grew up, but now I live in the Rocky Mountains which is fantastic. For this reason I'm very much looking forward to exploring Norway again - I know some good climbs if anybody is interested.

For the future, I'd like to go to South Africa. 43 years at sea and I've never called there!

A Spectacular Evening at Ephesus

Wednesday 10th August 2022

Internationally acclaimed singing sensation Jonathan Antoine will appear for one night only at the ancient amphitheatre at Ephesus.

Jonathan Antoine was first introduced to the world at the age of 17 on 'Britain's Got Talent' with what became the world's most viewed television audition of any performer in history. As the show's finalist Jonathan's career was launched with two chart-topping Classical albums in the U.K. and a global viral following that helped him become the youngest tenor to achieve a #1 selling Classical album.

Pianist and Steinway Artist Dominic Ferris will accompany him for this once-in-a-lifetime experience exclusive to Seabourn.

Dominic Ferris is one of the UK's leading pianists and a global ambassador to the flagship piano brand Steinway & Sons. He is currently musical director to Dame Shirley Bassey and has collaborated with some of the world's leading artists including Barry Manilow and Brian Wilson of the Beach Boys.

36 HOURS IN SINGAPORE

A city, a nation and a state, Singapore has geographical prowess to which very few places on earth can lay claim. This metropolis has worked hard to earn its tourist stripes; just a few decades ago, Singapore would rarely have featured on any Asian itinerary as a destination in its own right - but how times have changed.

FROM ABOVE

Marina Bay Sands

Modern melts effortlessly into tradition on the streets of Singapore, as glittering skyscrapers soar proudly over the few remaining jigsaw pieces of colonialism laid out below. To fully appreciate the bigger picture, heading cloudward is your only option.

Marina Bay Sands is a sprawling behemoth of an attraction; a hotel, casino, shopping centre, theatre, exhibition and museum complex all cower beneath its surfboard-like roof. Your 36 hours could quite easily be guzzled up in this feat of modern architecture alone, and while it is both iconic and impressive in equal measure, an hour or two of your time will more than more than suffice. Scale the SkyPark Observation Deck after nightfall; Singapore spans a mere 278 square miles - that's around half the size of London - and on a clear night you're pretty much guaranteed a 260-degree view of it all. You really will feel as though you're on top of the world, and at 57 storeys up, you won't be far off.

For an altogether different perspective, visit the Singapore Flyer during daylight hours.

For an altogether different perspective, visit the Singapore Flyer during daylight hours. The city's answer to the London Eye will suspend you 165 metres above ground and, for a good half an hour or so, it's an opportunity to get your bearings and start ticking landmarks off your list.

And the air conditioning? Well, that's just a bonus on the days where the rest of Singapore sizzles below. Give it a try at sunset for the most spectacular vistas, as the surrounding skyscrapers become lacquered with a golden glow.

Gardens by the Bay

Another one for your Singaporean shortlist is Gardens by the Bay. Kew Gardens meets War of the Worlds is the best way to describe this attraction.

Let us level with you: Singapore has just as many impressive skyscrapers as any other Asian city. We could shoo you towards the tallest this or the biggest that, but it's what lies at ground level that makes this destination so intoxicating.

As you'd expect from The Garden City, Singapore is as green as they come. The UNESCO World Heritage-listed Botanic Gardens provide the city with its lungs, an enclave of calm against the hustle and bustle of the mall-lined streets. Local people come here for a moment of zen; you'll see them by the dozen, practising Tai Chi against the background of plush plant-fringed walkways. Spare a few minutes to amble around the National Orchid Garden, or line up more unusual encounters for yourself in the Bonsai and Ginger Gardens.

Another one for your Singaporean shortlist is Gardens by the Bay. Kew Gardens meets War of the Worlds is the best way to describe this attraction, where you're sure to get your flora fix alongside a few futuristic extras for added interest. Spanning over 101 hectares, you'll once again need to exercise some self-restraint. By this point you're likely to have had your fill of bird's-eye views, so we'd recommend dividing your time between the Flower Dome and Floral Fantasy. Brightly coloured petals cascade from every angle and the magnitude of the displays are quite something, so prepare for your camera roll to reach maximum capacity.

To tick another one of those 'won't get anywhere else' experiences off your list, set aside a few hours for the Singapore Night Safari. Hailed as the world's first nocturnal wildlife park, once your eyes have adjusted to the darkness you'll enjoy spotting hundreds of species as you venture through the jungle. Take your pick from one of four walking routes, or hop aboard a guided tram or buggy ride. Either way, it's a truly unique adventure.

Great food is woven into the very fabric of Singapore, and we'd urge you to shun meticulously constructed dishes in favour of something more rugged. The hawker food experience is one that's slowly migrated over to our shores, but its true authenticity lies here in south-east Asia. In centuries gone by, hawkers were where the migrant population huddled to provide quick, affordable meals, pavements, town squares and parks all lending themselves to serving up the most magnificent of meals. These days, the hawker ethos remains the same, but the surroundings are all the more civilised. Traders are now permitted to gather under one roof - you'll find around 100 of these dotted across the city - and the best tip we can offer is to locate the one with the longest queue and join it.

Should you find yourself in Chinatown, then your patience is likely to be rewarded at Hawker Chan.

Should you find yourself in Chinatown, then your patience is likely to be rewarded at Hawker Chan. This unassuming eatery was the first hawker in the world to be awarded a Michelin star. The dish that earned this coveted title is a chicken and rice combination; the sauce is freshly prepared every morning, where manual braising makes for a sticky, sumptuous dish worthy of just a fistful of your Singapore dollars.

As far as drinks go, the Singapore Sling is a must-try experience. It has graced many a cocktail menu since its conception over 100 years ago, and you should grab the opportunity to sip on the real thing with both hands. Venture to Raffles Hotel and perch yourself in Long Bar, with its rough-around-the-edges level of sophistication. Flanked by traditional Mayan decor, lower yourself into a wicker chair and brush the discarded peanut shells off the table as a keen mixologist gets to work creating this iconic tippie. Ngiam Tong Boon designed the Singapore Sling back in 1915 at a time when women drinking alcohol in public was a most definite no-no, its fruit juice-like exterior and clear alcohol proving deceptive enough for any curious onlooker. Gin, pineapple, lime juice, curaçao and b  nedictine are all expertly combined, as grenadine and cherry liqueur provide a blush colour. This is a drink that's best savoured slowly. You have come all this way, after all.

SAVOR THE JOURNEY

It's a FAMILY AFFAIR

Multi-generational holidays are hardly a new concept; images of grandparents reclining in their deck chairs as their grandkids clumsily construct sandcastles will grace any family photo album. But times have changed.

A CASE FOR CRUISING

Only a matter of months ago, the thought of herding up excitable relations ahead of a family holiday may have seemed like a pipedream. Now we are able to hug relatives that little bit harder, and let our travel ambitions span that little bit further, even the greatest of home birds is chomping at the well-gnawed bit to get back out there. With multi-generational breaks poised to be more popular than ever, there's a real case for cruising. Not only does this style of holiday make planning easy, but it'll dampen down the usual hotbed of disagreements. Who will host? What will the sleeping arrangements be? How will you cater for that aunty with an overly-discerning palate?

Cruising means everyone can arrive in their well-appointed stateroom, unpack just the once, knowing the world will unfurl right in front of their eyes. Young or old, you can't help but be awe-struck by what this planet has to offer - and doing it with the family from the luxury of a cruise ship makes it all the more special.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

It's during the planning phase that the age-old cruising debate moves sharply into focus: Should you pick a holiday based on a ship, or the itinerary?

Rather unhelpfully, we're here to tell you that both are equally important.

Spending hours trawling through deck plans and destinations is pure adulterated planning pleasure for some, but for the rest of us, it's just another thing that gets in the way of kicking off the holiday countdown.

Cruise ships have come a long way over recent years. Tea dances and hotly-contested board games have now been replaced with big-screen cinemas and rollercoasters. But bigger isn't always better. Smaller,

Young or old, you can't help but be awe-struck by what this big, wide world of ours has to offer - and doing it with the family from the luxury of a cruise ship makes it all the more special.

family-friendly ships maintain a cohort of loyal fans and might be more suited to your needs; Royal Caribbean's Adventure of the Seas, for example, doesn't skimp on features, but maintains a small-ship feel you won't get from the behemoths of the Oasis Class. Meanwhile, P&O Cruises Ventura and Azura hold their own at the smaller end of the scale. It all depends on what you want, need and expect from your choice of ship.

Some are adults-only, so if the younger members of your family are tagging along, you can quickly strike those off your list. Should your multi-generational holiday be all about bringing the upper echelons of your family tree together, then an adult-only ship is well worth a look. Take your pick from the Virgin Voyages fleet, where there won't be anyone under the age of 18 in sight.

THE GENERATION GAME

One of the biggest challenges of any family holiday is keeping everyone entertained. Cruising eliminates the need to be in each other's pockets 24/7, as there's enough happening on and offboard to help fill those holiday hours. If your elderly uncle would rather bury his head in a book out on deck while the kids burn off some steam playing shuffleboard, it's all possible at sea. Any protests of "I'm bored" can quickly be quelled with a round of mini-golf or, dare we say it, a stint in the children's club.

While quality family time is undoubtedly what you all signed up for, there's nothing stopping you from simply arranging a rendezvous in the restaurant on an evening, where you can each offload your best tales from the day. Permission granted to seek solace in the spa or decompress with a few laps of the running track, as the rest of your family tackles the ninth quiz of the cruise. The only thing stopping you will be your conscience.

DESTINATION: FAMILY TIME

One are the days of spending a fortnight baking on the Costa del Sol; family breaks have become a lot more imaginative, and multi-generational cruises are the most vivid of them all. Much of Europe is only a short shuffle from the UK, Scandinavian jewels glimmer on the not-so-distant horizon, and lazy shores of the Greek Islands remain tantalisingly close.

Then there are fly-cruises to consider. The Med hasn't quite lost its crown yet as the major family holiday hotspot; a two-, three- or four-hour flight will quickly transport you to balmy climes, intriguing cultures and some of the freshest, most incredible cuisine that's ever existed. The beauty of cruising means you won't have to pick from a myriad of Mediterranean delights, think of it more as a tasting platter of all the best bits. Don't take a risk on the menu item you're not quite sure about, this is a multi-generational holiday after all, and that mistake will repeat on you at family gatherings for years to come.

And, of course, there is nothing to say your multi-generational adventure should be confined to these European shores. After staying cooped up for so long, the desire to expand travel horizons has never spanned so far, nor been so adventurous.

There is nothing to say your multi-generational adventure should be confined to these European shores.

If your heart is firmly set on a winter adventure, there's nowhere finer than the Caribbean. Yes, there's a longer flight to contend with, but once that warm embrace of heat hits you as the plane door swings open, it will soon seem a distant memory.

Sticking a pin in a map may feel like your only option with such a big, wide and wonderful world of destinations to choose from.

But help is at hand. Here's a selection of some of our tried and tested family cruise ports, perfectly poised to welcome your multi-generational holiday.

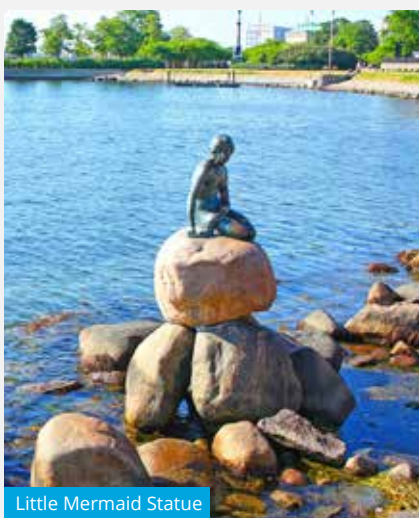

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK

Northern Europe is one of the easiest regions to cruise to from the UK, and Copenhagen is a destination worthy of a day of any multi-generational holiday. Create memories of the young - or should that be young at heart - tentatively stepping aboard their segways, ready to tear up the streets of the Danish capital. Zip past the colourful houses of Nyhavn and the coffee-savourers huddled in pavement cafes, admired by Mum who would much rather have kept her feet fully on the ground. And what would a family holiday be without seeing at least one of the tourist sights? Experience the shared disappointment of realising the Little Mermaid lives up to her name and really is very little, indeed.

Nyhavn

Little Mermaid Statue

Stavanger

STAVANGER, NORWAY

Norway lends itself perfectly to any sort of adventure. Stavanger is knee-deep with history and the freshest of air makes it a delight to walk around. Little legs won't get tired easily, and even the greatest of couch potatoes is distracted enough not to realise just how many miles they've covered. Stavanger is also home to The Norwegian Canning Museum, one of the most impromptu visits we've ever made on a cruise. Don't let the name put you off, the whole family will leave with their minds packed like sardines full of facts, and more importantly, recollections of one of the most shall we say, different, shared family experiences ever encountered.

Norwegian Canning Museum

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND

Could there be anything better than sharing a bucket list experience as a family? The Northern Lights are one of the most easily accessible, and achievable, from these shores. Iceland is a magical place with or without nature's greatest light show, but we'd recommend timing your visit between late-September to late-March to increase your chances of enjoying the aurora borealis. It's an out-of-this-world experience in every sense of the word, and one that transcends every age group. Stargaze to pass the time while you wait patiently - as soon as the kaleidoscope of lights start to dance across the night sky, even the chattiest of family members will find themselves dumbstruck.

Northern Lights

Reykjavik

ROME, ITALY

As far as multi-generational destinations go, Rome is arguably the ruler of them all. Your ship will dock in Civitavecchia, a port that few can pronounce and even fewer can spell. Enjoy pounding the streets together, seeing a city that has provided a backdrop for many Hollywood movies come to life right before your eyes. Angels and Demons, Gladiator and Mission Impossible III are just a few to add to the family film night list before your holiday gets underway. Oh, and make sure you find time for gelato. When in Rome...

Gelato in Rome

St. Peter's Basilica

Ffryes Beach in Antigua

ST. JOHN'S, ANTIGUA

Each Caribbean island has its own identity, with cultures and traditions a far cry from what we're used to. But what is the point of travel if not to expand the mind? What the younger generations learn in the classroom they can see, hear and taste first-hand, and the adults might learn a thing or two as well. Antigua doesn't disappoint in the aesthetic stakes, welcoming visitors with milky-white beaches lapped by barely-there waves. But behind this picture-perfect facade lies an island with more history than any textbook could ever do justice. Round up the family and head to Nelson's Dockyard, where wide-smiled locals will bring tales of hardship, crusades and maritime battles to life. Once the only working Georgian dockyard in the Western Hemisphere, Lord Nelson described it as a "vile hole". Today it is anything but.

GREAT EXUMA, THE BAHAMAS

Wildlife experiences span the generations. If the Caribbean has made it onto your multi-generational holiday shortlist, then there's a strong case to be made for swimming with pigs in the Bahamas. Great Exuma is home to this crazy-yet-unmissable wildlife experience which you'll collectively, and fondly, reminisce over for years to come. Step into the bath-water warmth of the sea where you will make friends with these far-from-pocket-sized porcine creatures, and create some extra-special family memories along the way.

Bahamas Islands From Above

Swimming Pigs of Great Exuma

NEW YORK, USA

There are few cities on earth as iconic as New York, and few that satisfy the needs of a multi-generational holiday on quite the same magnitude. It's big, it's brazen and a few words quite frankly won't do it justice. Spend your days seeing all the main sights, bolt down to Broadway or, if you plan far enough ahead, you might even manage to get tickets to the filming of a TV show. Even for the city that never sleeps, there are pockets of calm to be discovered. Head to the inner-city oasis that is Bryant Park to rest those weary legs, sample a famous New York coffee and recharge your batteries before tackling the rest of your to-do list with renewed gusto.

Hubbard Glacier

ALASKA, USA

An Alaskan adventure is plotted out with so many incredible ports. The 76-mile-long Hubbard Glacier calls this part of the world home, and you'll sail just close enough to fully appreciate its majesty. Dad might reel off some geographical facts, while the rest of the clan stand there open-mouthed and awe-struck as Mother Nature shows off her finest wares. Juneau, the Alaskan capital, maintains the sleepy vibe, but with the potential for a dog-sledding adventure, hushed gasps will soon be replaced with squeals of delight.

FEATURE

BRINGING CARIBBEAN FLAIR TO ARVIA

Celebrity chef Shivi Ramoutar has been named Arvia's Local Food Hero, where she'll be introducing the vibrancy of Caribbean cuisine to the ocean waves. We caught up with her to find out more about what guests can expect from her food, which will feature across Taste 360 and The Beach House when the brand new P&O Cruises ship launches this December.

Caribbean Dish

WHAT DO YOU HOPE TO BRING TO ONBOARD DINING AS ARVIA'S LOCAL FOOD HERO THAT P&O CRUISES GUESTS MAY NOT HAVE EXPERIENCED BEFORE?

I really can't wait to bring authentic Caribbean limin' to P&O Cruises guests. This is a local phenomenon of just letting time pass you by, relaxing with friends old and new, always with some delicious tropical food in front of you to share and a cold drink in your hand. I think given the stunning setting on Arvia, alongside my Caribbean dishes, this will come naturally to our lovely guests.

YOU HAVE LIVED IN TRINIDAD, NEW YORK AND THE UK. HOW HAVE THESE PLACES INFLUENCED YOUR STYLE OF COOKING AND LOVE OF FOOD?

The contrast of these stunning places - the colour and chilled vibes of Trinidad, the electricity of New York, and the buzz and multiculturalism of London - has meant that my style of cooking is eclectic, taking inspiration from all three locations. It is full of colour and represents fusion that comes together harmoniously. Think familiar flavours, or ingredients that are woven together in a way that reflects traditional Caribbean dishes. I'm looking forward to bringing that to P&O Cruises guests

YOU'VE BEEN HAILED AS THE QUEEN OF CONTEMPORARY CARIBBEAN COOKING - HOW DOES CUISINE VARY ACROSS THE REGION? WHICH ISLANDS WOULD YOU SAY HAVE THE MOST DISTINCTIVE FLAVOURS?

There are, as you can imagine, many similarities across the islands when it comes to food, with each island having their subtle twist on each dish. However, it is no secret that each island has its selection of signature dishes, for example, you would know jerk hails from Jamaica, and curry chicken roti from Trinidad. In that respect, no one island takes the crown for the most distinctive flavours, rather the distinctive flavours are shared across the region due to the most colourful history that brought the different races and backgrounds of people into it. This has created a unique fusion of flavours, and each island has a few specialities that showcase this.

FOR SOMEONE WHO MAY NOT HAVE TRIED CARIBBEAN FOOD BEFORE, WHICH DISHES WOULD YOU RECOMMEND THEY TRY FIRST?

Ah this is so difficult! I would naturally say try it all. Go across the breadth and try dishes with different flavour profiles, a proper Trini-style chicken curry with roti (which is from an Indian background), a callaloo (originating from West Africa), jerk pork with rice and peas (a mixture of West African and Indigenous), and a salt cod dish, like buljol (Portuguese inspired).

WHICH OF ARVIA'S FEATURES ARE YOU MOST EXCITED TO EXPLORE?

I cannot believe that Arvia will feature an Escape Room, so I am especially excited about that, along with the Altitude High Ropes experience. When I have finished with the exhilarating activities, I hear there is going to be an incredible spa to unwind in. I just can't wait to take in all the splendour.

WHERE IS ON YOUR TRAVEL BUCKET LIST THAT YOU'VE NOT YET HAD CHANCE TO VISIT?

Goodness, I have so much of the world still to explore, Mexico is high on the list, as is a lot of South America. Just need to make the time for this!

GREAT EUROPEAN ODYSSEY

Spirit of the Rhine (RH285)

6 Aug 2022 | 20 Nights

This epic river cruise from Bulgaria's Black Sea coast along the Danube and Rhine visits four historic capital cities and a host of riverside towns in Germany and Austria. Compare and contrast the timeless architecture and culture of the great capital cities of Belgrade, Budapest, Bratislava and Vienna, as well as visiting a host of historic riverside towns in Germany and Austria.

The medieval town of Veliko Tarnovo

A stop in Svistov provides the opportunity to set off on a full-day optional trip to one of Bulgaria's most attractive medieval towns, overlooking the River Yantra.

Ancient Belgrade

One of the oldest cities in Europe, Belgrade has a fascinating history that can be traced back over 50,000 years. The city has witnessed over 115 wars and has been razed to the ground over 40 times, including by Attila the Hun.

Vienna, the city of music

Vienna is undoubtedly the world capital of opera and classical music, with Mozart, Beethoven, Strauss and Schubert among its famous historic repertoire. The State Opera House is one of the world's leading opera houses and you will see it's Renaissance exterior for yourself during your included tour.

DISCOVER EUROPE'S

LESSER-KNOWN CRUISE PORTS

The excitement of booking a cruise often starts with glancing down an itinerary, where, more often than not, our excited eyes can't help but hone in on the ports we're familiar with. But for every Barcelona or Rome you encounter, there also lies a less renowned destination just waiting to be discovered.

Whether you unearth these hidden gems as soon as you disembark, or they glimmer faintly in the distance beyond the confines of the port, there are plenty of lesser-known European destinations deserving of their place on your cruise itinerary.

Villefranche, France

VILLEFRANCHE, France

The south of France. It's where the high life is well and truly lived, whether that's through rolling dice in the casinos of Monte Carlo, or sipping a glass of perfectly chilled champagne as exquisite yachts float by. Villefranche is a slice of heaven on these not-too-distant shores - a quiet, unassuming port, shy in comparison to these more confident neighbours.

At its core, Villefranche is a fishing village adorned with picture-perfect scenery. Terracotta buildings cling to the cliffside, intercepted by a maze of cobbled streets that will challenge even the surest sense of direction. For a few hours at least, Villefranche holds its own as a captivating cruise destination. The climate is fine, the way of life is slow and the waters sparkling - what more could you want than that?

And you can't help but be compelled by the razzamatazz of the French Riviera, the good news is the bright lights of Nice and Cannes only lie about an hour away.

Street in Villefranche

Monte Carlo

Cannes

OLDEN, Norway

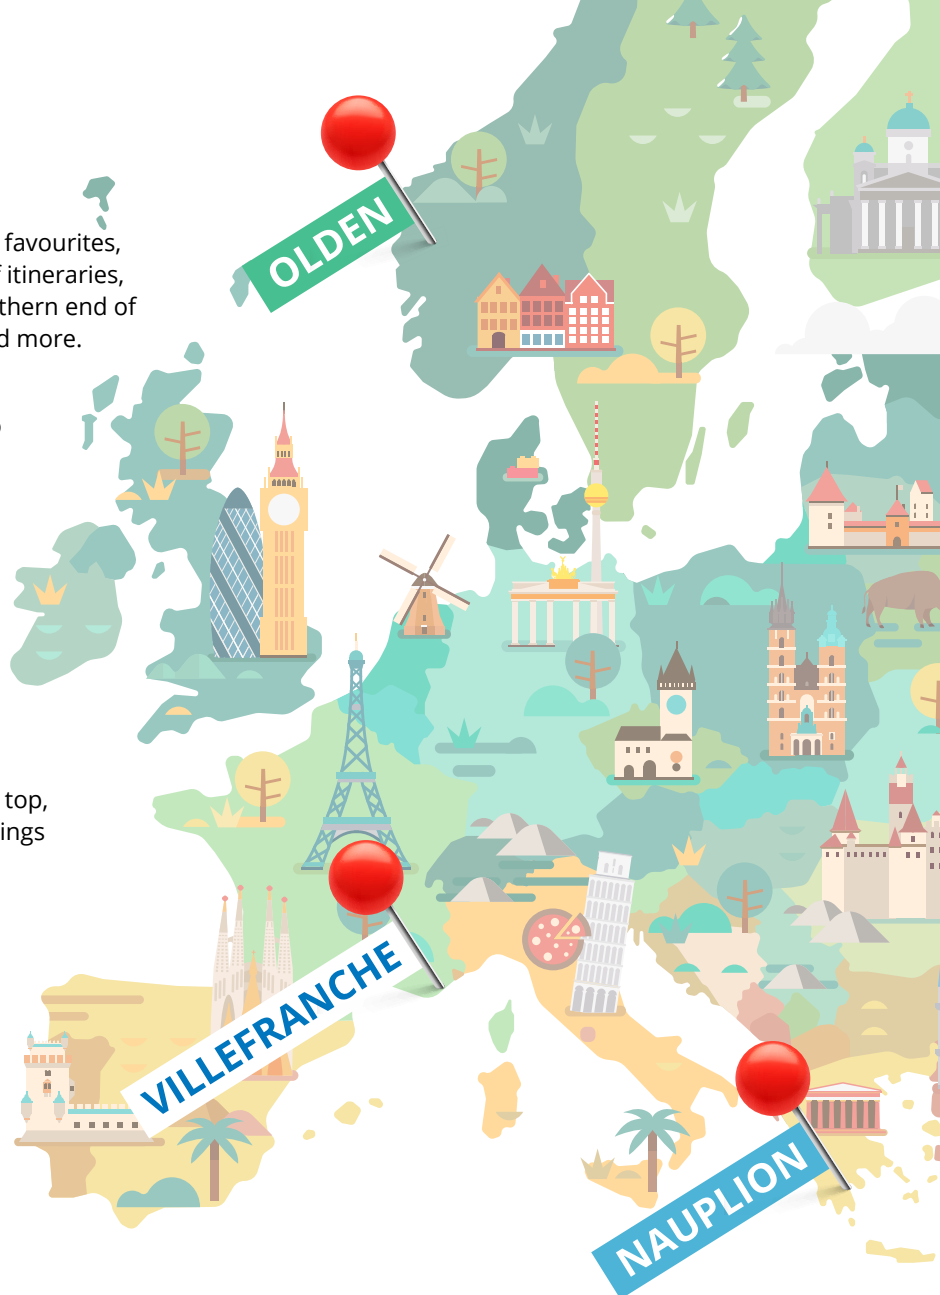

Bergen and Stavanger remain firm cruise destination favourites, but Olden is finding its feet on a growing number of itineraries, including those from P&O Cruises. Squatting at the southern end of Nordfjord, it's everything you'd expect from a fjord - and more.

This village is a sleepy sort, where nature more than makes up for mankind's barely-there footprint. It's also a place of great contrasts; the roaring waterfalls an antithesis to the millpond-like Lake Oldevatnet, while wind-scorched rocks lay jagged against the dense green of the surrounding slopes.

Olden doesn't serve up tourist attractions by the dozen, as you're instead invited to sit back and be inspired by everything Mother Nature has to offer. For a bird's-eye view of what lies below, the Loen Skylift will do just the job. Embark the cable car and see the entire fjord from a height of 1,011 metres; the journey takes a mere five minutes and, once at the top, you'll fully appreciate just how stunning your surroundings really are.

Loen Skylift

NAUPLION, Greece

Greece is a cruiser's dream. Picturesque ports, idyllic islands - they're all just a short side-step away from each other. While some areas have become part and parcel of the great British getaway, others, like Nauplion, lie a little further off the radar.

This destination is so inconspicuous that it's also known by a mezze of other names, including Nafplion and Nafplio. Celebrity Cruises first introduced it to their Celebrity Edge cruise itineraries in 2019 and, ever since, ships both large and small have been jostling to get a piece of the action. Silversea, Azamara, Holland America Line and Seabourn are just a few that will transport you to this captivating corner of the Greek mainland.

Nauplion is a town that offers a heady mix of everything we know and love about this part of the world. You're guaranteed a satisfying history fix, as the town served as the capital of modern Greece during the early 1800s. A couple of miles out of town lies Epidaurus Ancient Theatre, hailed for its haunting acoustics and perfectly preserved structure that puts many feats of modern architecture to shame.

Cafe on the Quaint Narrow Streets of Nauplion

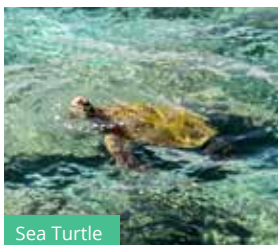

The town itself serves up a narrowing network of alleyways, where hot pink bougainvilleas clamber up the whitewashed walls, and the scent of jasmine swirls in the air. This town has been prised from the pages of a romance novel, no wonder then that it's hailed as one of the most romantic destinations in Greece.

ARGOSTOLI, Greece

Argostoli may not seem familiar by name, but if we told you it's the capital of Kefalonia, the faintest bell may start to ring in your memory.

The island has plenty to offer in the aesthetics stakes, and Argostoli is a mere corner of this picture-perfect postcard of a destination.

As soon as you step ashore, Argostoli's helpfully arranged grid pattern will make it easy to get around. Traipsing the streets of this charming, pristine town is nothing short of a pleasure, with restaurants and cafes enticing you to just sit and watch the world go by. To get in on the action, head to the pedestrianised Platia Vallianou, or Central Square, a hive for people watching and soaking up the Greek sun.

Sea Turtle

If you're lucky enough to be in port when the fishing boats return with their morning catch, head down to the harbour to catch a glimpse of one of nature's spectacles. Sea turtles usually appear, hoping to snatch a morsel of food, the glassy, crystalline waters making them easy to spot.

Typical Argostoli Street

Platia Vallianou

LA CORUÑA, Spain

Northern Spanish ports usually conjure up images of Bilbao and Santander - and understandably so. But La Coruña is very much the new kid on the block, despite its origins being firmly rooted in the past.

This historic city's position next to the Atlantic Ocean offers something different to the usual Mediterranean shores. Head slightly inland and you'll uncover the Old City, complete with its Romanesque streets and squares, and architecture that's about as Spanish as you could imagine.

La Coruña also hosts an expansive seafront, best enjoyed with a slow-paced stroll. If you've got your heart set on seeing the city's famous Tower

Tower of Hercules

Empanada

of Hercules, the world's only remaining working Roman lighthouse, then stop en route at the beach of San Amaro, where calm waters and swathes of sand offer the ideal place to rest your legs. Grab yourself an empanada to enjoy as you watch the world go by, a pasty-like Galician delicacy that's best savoured in the region of its birth.

CARTAGENA, Spain

Not to be confused with its Colombian counterpart, Cartagena is a city in the Murcia region of south-east Spain. Its strategic position has made the port invaluable to the Spanish mainland over the centuries, but cruise visitors are the ones who have more recently reaped the rewards.

Step ashore and you'll be greeted with a clean, quiet city with pockets of pure Spanishness. Glance out over the glistening Med from the canon-lined promenade before venturing further into the city. The Roman Theatre is a sight to behold; it was only rediscovered in 1988 having lay unexcavated for more than 2,000 years. An extensive restoration has drawn visitors from far and wide, earning the museum the title of Murcia's most visited.

If you haven't already had your fill of gastronomic delights on board, Cartagena is the place to indulge. Perhaps unsurprisingly, fish is the order of the day here; the Med lies just an arm's length away, serving up some of the freshest seafood you could ever imagine. And while you're at it, wash your meal down with Cartagena's typical asiático. Made from coffee, condensed milk, Licor 43 and cinnamon, the coffee accompaniment will put the spring back in your step that you will need to carry on exploring.

The Roman Theatre in Cartagena

LA SPEZIA, Italy

One thing you'll find with lesser-known cruise ports is that they're often a gateway to somewhere fantastic - and La Spezia is one of them. This Italian port may leave you scratching your head at first glance, but with the quaint fishing villages of Cinque Terre less than an hour away, its place on your well-earned holiday is more than justified.

Nestled in the Italian Riviera, Cinque Terre comprises five fishing communities, each cradled by some of the world's most dramatic coastal scenery. Colour is the order of the day here, each building vibrantly painted and as photogenic as they come.

Cars have been banned here for ten years or more, and the benefit certainly shows. Waterfront promenades, stunning harbours and narrow alleys are just some of the stunning spectacles waiting to be discovered, and docking at La Spezia makes it possible.

JOURNEY WONDERFULLSM.

IT'S BEYONDSM TIME

SAILING EUROPE SUMMER 2022

CELEBRITY BEYONDSM

MORE SPACE. MORE LUXURY. MORE CONNECTED.

Welcome to a place where you can experience all the things you've been missing for so long. Only now, those things are even better than you've imagined. This is a place where the possibilities are as endless as the views. Where you can disconnect entirely while you reconnect with each other—and the world. This place is Celebrity BeyondSM.

The third ship in our revolutionary Edge® Series takes our innovative outward-facing design further than ever, creating an even closer connection between you, the sea, and every exciting place on the horizon. Unwind in expanded open-air spaces. Savour fine dining that rivals anything you'd find on land. And discover even more ways to relax and renew.

CULINARY EXCELLENCE

What you eat on vacation is almost as important as where you go, and on every Celebrity vacation, we bring both together perfectly. The captivating scents and flavours of your dining experience will transport you to new places—without even leaving your table. Our Michelin-starred chef creates the globally inspired dishes on every menu, and they're prepared fresh daily using local ingredients. And, with a wide variety of distinctive restaurants, where the vibe is as appealing as the cuisines they serve, your favourite restaurant during your holiday will most likely be right on board.

THE RETREAT

A place so exclusive it has no address, The Retreat® is the ultimate luxury vacation experience. Every guest not only enjoys stunning suite accommodations but also private dining, an exclusive lounge and sundeck, and a long lineup of services and amenities. Kelly Hoppen enhances this already unrivalled resort-within-a-resort with stunningly reimagined spaces that are now brought together in one area.

ROOFTOP GARDEN

What better place could there be to gaze at the sea than float pools that are cantilevered over the open ocean? This feature is one of the highlights of our redesigned Rooftop Garden, which now extends right over the water's edge. The living urban playscape that debuted on our Edge® Series has turned over a whole new leaf on Celebrity BeyondSM, thanks to the vision of world-renowned designer Kelly Hoppen, CBE, and architect Tom Wright, of WKK.

MAGIC CARPET

No rush can compete with the endless views 13 stories above the sea on our cantilevered Magic Carpet®. First, you might wonder how we made the impossible possible, but then, you'll simply surrender to the feeling of floating across the endless horizon as you drink, dine, or simply relax. But the Magic Carpet isn't just one magical venue—it's several—and each transformation it undergoes brings an entirely new way to experience this amazing place.

Due to evolving health protocols, imagery and messaging may not accurately reflect onboard and destination experiences, offerings, features, or itineraries.  SILVERSEA®

A NEW DAWN

Silversea recently launched their latest ship, Silver Dawn, and our Cruise & Stay Expert Joseph was invited to experience the six-star service first hand. Here, he tells us more about his time on board, and why Silver Dawn far exceeded his expectations.

DAY 1

I'm usually one of those people who goes for bigger ships, so I didn't know what to expect from Silver Dawn. Any reservations I had soon disappeared as I stepped on board. After being handed a eucalyptus towel, I made my way to Dolce Vita, an elegant lounge in the centre of the ship. It was then that I had a sudden need for some snacks, which I found at Arts Café, which serves a stunning selection of sandwiches, cheese, cakes and cookies.

I then headed to my suite on deck eight, and when I walked in, my jaw dropped! I was greeted by a large, luxurious space, including a walk-in wardrobe and a huge bed, as well as a bathroom complete with separate shower and bath. There was also a seating area, where a bottle of champagne waited for me.

Next, my doorbell rang, and my butler was waiting. Tarik came into the suite and went through all the amenities; he asked if the mini bar was okay. I joked that I'm a Diet Coke addict, but everything was great. When I returned to the suite at the end of the night, the whole fridge was full of Diet Coke! This is when I started to see the service really shine through.

This was just one of the many little extra touches Tarik thoughtfully provided. He cleaned my shoes, my sunglasses and even my iPad screen. My suitcase was cleaned and put in the wardrobe, and every night all my personal belongings were squared up and tidied. He also moved the position of the TV depending on the time of day.

That evening, I dined at the Atlantide Restaurant. Everyone on the table had a caviar starter, followed by scallops and a duck Caesar salad. Then came the main event: the best steak I've ever eaten. For anyone reading who would prefer fish or plant-based meals, there were plenty of options. I finished the meal with a delicate lemon tart.

We ended the night in the S.A.L.T. Bar, which I'd describe as an intimate speakeasy. They have locally inspired cocktails that change depending on the destination. Our waitress, Monica, spent some time asking me what flavours and spirits I liked. She used this information to craft the most amazing cocktail. I was so in love with this venue that I came back each night.

We ended the night in the S.A.L.T. Bar, which I'd describe as an intimate speakeasy.

DAY 2

I started my day with Tarik bringing me breakfast. He pulled out a table and laid everything out for me, I felt like I was in Downton Abbey!

Next on the agenda was a tour of the Otium Spa, designed around the Roman idea of relaxation and indulgence. While I didn't have a treatment, I was told that I could experience the Otium way in my suite. More on this later.

We were docked in the Algarve, where I tried a S.A.L.T. excursion, designed to bring authentic, local experiences through food and history. We were taken to Vila Vita Parc, a luxury resort with the most stunning scenery, where we had an authentic Portuguese lunch where each course was explained.

Tonight's meal was courtesy of S.A.L.T. Kitchen, where the menu changes for each location you visit. I had a fig and goat's cheese starter, followed by a sea bream main course. The whole table couldn't decide on dessert, so we ordered one of each and shared!

This whole day stood out to me because I've never felt more connected to a local culture, especially the way in which we toured the area, learnt about local history and cuisine.

DAY 3

It was my last day on Silver Dawn and I had to make the most of the time left, so I went on a tour of Lagos. One thing to note with these tours and everything on board was I never felt rushed; they waited for you to arrive and the guides were very relaxed about timings.

I then got back on board for lunch and I have one thing on my mind: sushi. I kept hearing from the other guests that the sushi in the Kaiseki restaurant was incredible. Well, they weren't lying, it was amazing.

After lunch I thought I would try one of the in-suite Otium experiences. There are four on offer, including the bathing experience, which I chose. Your butler will offer a selection of bespoke bath salts - pick your favourite, and your butler will come and run a bath. Soft classical music is played and flameless candles dimly light the bathroom, while macarons are left waiting by the bath. I also asked for some champagne and caviar for the ultimate luxury treat.

The crew were simply the best. I've stayed in some iconic hotels and the service I received on Silver Dawn blew everything else away.

It was then time for my final meal on board. We dined at La Terrazza, the Italian eatery. We started with antipasti, followed by multiple courses of salad, pasta, and fish, ending with a classic tiramisu.

To finish the night, we went to Vicki van Tassel's one-woman show. I've never known a cruise director do a show themselves. The show took us through her life, and I've never seen a funnier show at sea. This lady is an absolute highlight of the cruise.

Now I've had time to reflect on my time on Silver Dawn, I realise I was never bored on the ship. Schedules were always filled with interesting talks and activities and the service exceeded my expectations and the hype from my work friends. The crew were simply the best. I've stayed in some iconic hotels and the service I received on Silver Dawn blew everything else away.

If you were on the fence about booking onto a Silversea sailing, I would say get off that fence and go for it. You will be looked after like royalty and have unforgettable moments.

PAPPARDELLE ALLA BOLOGNESE

Take your spaghetti bolognese to the next level with this exclusive recipe from NCL. It's rich, it's sumptuous and it's an all-round crowd pleaser.

Serves 4

INGREDIENTS

- > 400g pappardelle pasta
- > 500g of mince, a mix of beef, pork and veal
- > 2 garlic cloves
- > 1 large onion, finely chopped
- > 2 carrots, peeled and finely chopped
- > 2 celery sticks, finely chopped
- > A knob of butter
- > 1 tablespoon of olive oil
- > 2 tins peeled and crushed plum tomatoes
- > 125ml red wine
- > 400ml chicken stock
- > A pinch of salt
- > A bouquet garni of rosemary and thyme

METHOD

- > Preheat the oven to 190°C.
- > To prepare the bolognese sauce, heat a skillet and add half the oil and all the butter.
- > Add the vegetables and garlic to the skillet and sauté for five to seven minutes on medium heat.
- > Add the bouquet garni and cook for three to four minutes, then set aside.
- > In a separate large pot, heat the remaining oil.
- > Lay all the meats on a tray and lightly season before adding to the skillet.
- > Stir occasionally in order to break up the meat and cook until browned.
- > Add the meat to the vegetables and roast until it sticks to the bottom of the pot.
- > Add the wine and reduce.
- > Add the tomato paste, roast well, then add the plum tomatoes.
- > Cook on low heat until reduced and then add the chicken stock a little at a time. Gently simmer for one hour.
- > Bring the sauce to the right consistency and adjust the seasoning.
- > Boil the pappardelle pasta until al dente, approximately two minutes, and drain.
- > Add the pasta to the bolognese sauce and bring to the correct consistency, adding water if necessary.
- > Adjust the seasoning and remove the sauce from the stove. Finish the dish with extra virgin olive oil, parmesan cheese and chopped parsley.

The New Dawn Is Coming!

A new world of luxury is waiting aboard Silver Dawn. Both classic yet modern, Silver Dawn is the natural evolution of Silversea's fleet. Large enough to offer eight dining options – including the superb Sea and Land Taste (S.A.L.T.) programme – yet small enough for the famed Silversea on board ambience, Silver Dawn inherits the best features of her sister ships Silver Muse and Silver Moon, but is in a class all of her own. Sumptuous suites, outstanding itineraries plus cutting-edge design and technology, Silver Dawn sets new standards of luxury. Let's wake up to a new dawn with Silversea.

Otium: The Original Art of Comfort

Infusing 2,000 years of Roman culture into a pioneering, modern-day spa, Silversea's highly anticipated Otium debuts this spring aboard the new Silver Dawn. The completely reimagined wellness concept transcends all norms, inviting you to indulge in a holistic, sensorial journey of comfort, pleasure, and wellness, where ship, suite, and spa are organically connected with bespoke experiences imbued throughout their entire voyage.

A World Of Dining Options

Silver Dawn's eight dining options offer something for even the most jaded gourmet. Enjoy everything from laid-back eating to elegant fine dining. Silversea pride themselves on their gourmet offering, so guests aboard Silver Dawn can choose from elegant dining in Atlantide – a classic restaurant where you'll be able to enjoy delicacies such lobster, caviar and filet mignon, to The Grill – a poolside rotisserie by day and romantic "hot rocks" restaurant by night.

S.A.L.T. Sea And Land Taste

S.A.L.T. is a gastronomic concept that stretches your destination experience further than just your taste buds. Try the S.A.L.T. Kitchen, the dedicated dining venue and take your taste buds on a journey through the food heritage of the Mediterranean, the colourful Caribbean or the coasts of Northern Europe. Or visit the S.A.L.T. Bar, for regionally inspired cocktails made with locally produced quality spirits prepared by master mixologists. Plus, selected shore excursions on all Silver Dawn sailings benefit from a culinary focus. These in-depth and informative shore experiences are accompanied by regional food experts, adept at explaining the intricacies of foreign cuisine.
