The No.1 Cruise Specialist

Be entertained on

ARVIA

Get ready for days you'll never forget with a mix of wonderful fleet firsts and everything P&O Cruises guests have come to know and love.

World-class entertainment on board Arvia

Please note that this page shows computer-aided drafts of Arvia's venues for illustrative purposes. These pages provide a highlight of what's in store, but some options won't be available on every cruise.

Entertainment venues

The 710 Club

A place to immerse yourself in the seductive sounds of an array of musical genres that have inspired Music Director Gary Barlow over the years, The 710 Club on Arvia is a sophisticated bar crafted to Gary's creative vision.

The Club House

Enjoy music, party nights with resident band PULSE, guest speakers, comedy, family entertainment and more in a live-lounge setting.

The Limelight Club

Get cosy beneath the intimate low lighting of The Limelight Club and prepare yourself for a showstopper of an evening.

Brodie's

This sociable pub is the home of big-screen sport on Arvia. Enjoy a great selection of drinks and have fun with live busker sets, karaoke and pub quizzes, too.

Ocean Studios

Catch the latest blockbuster releases, family favourites and classic films in a plush setting at this three-screen multiplex cinema.

Grand Atrium

Destination-inspired live music, breathtaking aerial vignettes, cocktail demonstrations and an ever-changing backdrop – there's no end to the delights you'll find in the Grand Atrium.

Sunset Bar

Sunset Bar is your day-to-night chill-out destination, with swing seats, atmospheric DJ sounds and a relaxed party vibe.

SkyDome

The retractable glass roof makes this a sunny space for poolside relaxation by day. In the evening, the space seamlessly transitions into a must-visit entertainment venue.

Theatre shows and experiences

Headliners Theatre

By day, catch a matinee show or WaveLength game show by Ben Shephard. By night, enjoy live comedy, music and theatre.

Greatest Days

Greatest Days by Tim Firth, The Official Take That Musical, is an adaptation of the acclaimed West End musical The Band. The show features the songs of Take That and a beautiful story by Olivier Award-winning writer Tim Firth, all brought to life on stage by an amazing cast.

Altitude

This outdoor adventure zone is a place for all the family, whether they want to play Altitude Minigolf, paddle in Splash Valley, or challenge themselves on the ropes of Altitude Skywalk.

WaveLength

Just how well do you know each other? Find out as you try to match your partner's answers in an exciting new interactive game show, created exclusively for P&O Cruises, virtually starring TV presenter and game show host Ben Shephard.

Mission Control

Exclusive to Arvia, Mission Control is an immersive experience that combines an escape game with multimedia simulation and an intense live-action story to create a thrilling underwater odyssey.

Families

The Reef

The Reef is the place for children up to age 12 to join activity programmes, play games and make friends. Registration is essential.

Scene

Teens from age 13 to 17 can stow away at this chilled games and entertainment hangout. Whether playing pool, table football or games consoles with new-found friends, they can try the lot as their favourite bands play on the jukebox.

Aardman

Children will love our themed Wallace & Gromit and Shaun the Sheep activities.

ALL HANDS ON DECK!

Be part of the madcap action as Wallace & Gromit start their new roles as Chief Ideas Officers on Arvia. You'll be tasked with charging up the ship's Big Ideas-O-Meter in a themed show that explores ideas of invention, love and craftsmanship through fun challenges, dancing and laughter.

Sports

If you've energy left after exploring ashore, why not try a new sport in the multipurpose Altitude Sports Arena?

Academy

Sign up to the P&O Cruises Academy programme on selected school holiday cruises to learn the skills to become a scientist, dancer or media mogul.

WELCOME

This will be our final issue before the new P&O Cruises ship Arvia launches in December, so we bring you all the latest updates and insights as the countdown to her inaugural season continues. Not only do we have an exclusive interview with P&O Cruises President Paul Ludlow, but our very own Arvia Insider Millie shares some of her personal experiences and highlights from the past few months.

Editor of Into the Blue Emma recently set sail on Norwegian Prima, the latest ship to join the Norwegian Cruise Line fleet, and she offers her first-hand review of what it was like to be among the first on board. This is one of the most hotly anticipated ships of recent years so I hope you will enjoy reading how she fared for a first-time NCL cruiser.

We have also included a review of exploring the Danube with AmaWaterways and, if you have ever considered six-star cruising, then take a look at our guide to just some of the little luxuries you can expect to find on board a Silversea ship. This is a cruise line I have been fortunate to sail with on many occasions and one that never fails to deliver a truly first-class experience.

If you're hoping to escape the chill over the coming months then hopefully our main Winter Sun Seekers feature will give you some ideas. We consider four destinations across four different continents, which I'm sure will whet your appetite for a winter adventure.

As for our regular features, we offer some suggestions for how to spend 36 Hours in Sydney and if you need some destination inspiration, then hopefully Boston will fit the bill.

I hope you enjoy reading.

Yours sincerely

Michael Wilson

DESTINATION INSPIRATION

BOSTON

Boston is unapologetically authentic, less brazen than its east coast counterparts. This quietly confident city plants itself firmly on day one of the American history books, making for a destination that endears itself to anyone and everyone.

An absent-minded amble will lead you to the quaintest of cobbled, gas lamp-lined streets, wending their way to shacks serving the freshest of seafood. Creamy clam chowder is spooned out by the delicious bowlful, as the sound of cracking lobster tail rings through the air.

LUGGAGE HEROES

Love it or loathe it, packing is an unavoidable part of any holiday. Make loading up your luggage more luxurious than laborious with these useful items.

1. Double Tranverz L Black, Eastpak

Soft case, roomy, with pockets - what more could you want from a suitcase? This model even comes with a 30 (yes, 30) year warranty and an in-built TSA-approved lock for peace of mind.

£180 (eastpak.com)

2. Tile Mate Luggage Tracker, Tile

Keeping tabs on your luggage is simple with one of these handy trackers. Simply attach to your bag and use the Android or Apple app to see exactly where it is.

£37.99 (uk.tile.com)

3. Ride-on Suitcase, Trunki

Trying to get kids to carry their own luggage isn't an easy task at the best of times - unless of course you've invested in a Trunki. Available in a host of colours and designs, the hardest part will be getting them to choose their favourite.

£44.99 (trunki.co.uk)

4. Travel Collection with Removable Inserts, Aspinal of London

Passports? Check. Tickets? Check. Currency? Check. With this must-have accessory, you don't need to worry about keeping those all-important travel documents in order.

£175 (aspinaloflondon.com)

- 5. Siena Smart Backpack, Nordace
There are backpacks and there are smart backpacks - and this one is right up there in the intelligence stakes. Perfectly shaped with a laptop sleeve, anti-theft pocket and USB charging port, you'll be left wondering how you ever travelled without it.

£84.99 (nordace.com)

- 6. Ultralight Packing Cube Set, Osprey
If you're not yet a packing cube convert, then where have you been?! Start your collection with this snazzy trio, complete with a small, medium and large cube to keep all those holiday must-haves neat and tidy.

£35 (ospreyeurope.com)

- 7. Cable Tidy Travel Bag, Stackers
Wires can be the bane of any traveller's life, but with this carry case, you can keep all your cables and chargers right where you need them.

FIRST LOOK AT ARVIA ON SHIPYARD VISIT

TWO MEMBERS of the Bolsover Cruise Club team recently visited the new P&O Cruises ship Arvia, which is undergoing construction at the Meyer Werft shipyard in Germany. Marketing Manager Danny, alongside Cruise Expert and Arvia Insider Millie, visited a number of key areas of the ship, including the Bridge and Grand Atrium, led by none other than the man who will be at the helm of Arvia, Captain Robert Camby.

He explained to the group that he feels “very lucky” to be the first person to sail Arvia, in what has become a real career highlight. “To Captain any ship in service is always a huge honour, but to be named Captain of this outstanding brand-new ship on its inaugural season is something very special indeed,” he revealed.

Danny and Millie were able to see Arvia’s SkyDome, which unlike sister ship Iona is fully retractable to allow guests to make the most of the weather when visiting sunshine destinations across the Caribbean. Measuring 40.96m by 34.24m, the SkyDome will be a hub for drinking and dining during the day, and when night falls it will transform into an incredible entertainment venue. Altitude Skywalk was also taking shape during their visit, a high ropes course which has never been seen before on board a P&O Cruises ship.

ROYAL CARIBBEAN REVEALS ICON OF THE SEAS HIGHLIGHTS

DETAILS of the next Royal Caribbean ship Icon of the Seas have emerged, a ship that promises guests ‘the best of every vacation’. Features include theme park adventures, beach retreats and a greater choice of accommodation than ever with 28 different stateroom categories.

Icon of the Seas will feature eight neighbourhoods, five of which have never been seen before on board a Royal Caribbean ship. Among the highlights is the AquaDome perched at the top of the ship; it will present a tranquil oasis by day and after dark, aqua shows will be held at the next-level AquaTheater.

The ship will be the first in the fleet to be powered by liquefied natural gas, the cleanest-burning marine fuel. Other proven applications include shore power connection and waste heat recovery systems, which will help ensure the new ship is the cruise line’s most sustainable to-date.

A number of other cruise line firsts will appear on Icon of the Seas, including Category 6, the largest waterpark at sea and Swim & Tonic, Royal Caribbean’s first swim-up bar. Pressure Drop and its 66-degree incline make it the industry’s first open free-fall slide, while the 46-foot-tall Frightening Bolt is the tallest drop slide on the ocean waves.

Michael Bayley, President and CEO at Royal Caribbean International, said: “Now more than ever, families and friends are prioritising experiences where they can bond and enjoy their own adventures.

“We set out to create a vacation that makes all that possible in one place for the thrill-seekers, the chill enthusiasts and everyone in between, without compromise. It’s this first-of-its-kind combination that makes Icon the future of family vacations, and that future is here.”

Icon of the Seas will sail year-round, seven-night Eastern and Western Caribbean cruises from Miami starting in January 2024 and every voyage will stop at Royal Caribbean’s private island, Perfect Day at CocoCay, in The Bahamas.

DISNEY CRUISE LINE SALES ARE UNDERWAY

DISNEY CRUISE LINE is now on sale to Bolsover Cruise Club Members, offering ideal getaways for the young and the young-at-heart. Five ships are currently in operation, Disney Magic, Disney Wonder, Disney Dream, Disney Fantasy and the brand-new Disney Wish, each of which pays homage to the grand age of the luxury ocean liner combined with state-of-the-art comforts. Whilst on board, passengers also have the opportunity to encounter popular Disney, Marvel and Star Wars characters.

A number of exciting itineraries are planned for 2023, including Disney Dream's inaugural voyage through Europe and fleet-wide sailings to destinations including Alaska, the Caribbean and beyond. Details of the cruise line's 2024 season will be made available in a few months' time. Sailings in the Caribbean often include a stop at Disney's own private island in The Bahamas, Castaway Cay, where the ships can dock without tendering, allowing guests to explore at their leisure.

Although Disney Cruise Line offers the ultimate in family-friendly travel, the ships also have a large adults-only offering. From a separate pool to dining venues reserved just for the grown-ups, there is also the option to take part in drinks tastings and mixology classes while on board.

We were recently able to experience Disney Wish for ourselves, so keep an eye out for a future issue of Into the Blue to find out exactly what we thought. In the meantime, speak to one of our Cruise Experts on 01246 819 819 if you require more information.

IN CONVERSATION WITH

PAUL LUDLOW

PRESIDENT OF P&O CRUISES

P&O CRUISES is preparing to welcome Arvia to their fleet this December. As the countdown continues, we caught up with President of P&O Cruises Paul Ludlow to discover more about what to expect from this brand-new ship, and what's in store for the cruise line in 2023 and beyond.

The 710 Club

WHAT HAVE BEEN THE HIGHLIGHTS OF THE PAST YEAR FOR P&O CRUISES, AND WHAT DO GUESTS HAVE TO LOOK FORWARD TO OVER THE NEXT 12 MONTHS?

A big highlight for all of us this year has been seeing the full P&O Cruises fleet return to service and once again doing what we do best and providing our guests with fantastic holidays.

I am also delighted that Iona has had such a successful maiden season in the Norwegian Fjords. Iona has been particularly popular with new-to-cruise guests who have really embraced the new experiences on board, including the contemporary restaurants and bars. These include The 710 Club, which is a live-music bar crafted to Gary Barlow's creative vision. There is also the SkyDome with its aerial performers and the new Conservatory Mini Suites, offering guests additional indoor space and bifold doors opening onto a spacious balcony to maximise their enjoyment of the weather and views.

Looking ahead to next year, we'll be looking forward to Arvia embarking on her first winter season to the Caribbean. We will also build on Iona's Fjords season and there are many new itineraries across the fleet, including Britannia's 'island itineraries' which include Mallorca and Ibiza, as well as new Scandinavian and Baltic Sea destinations.

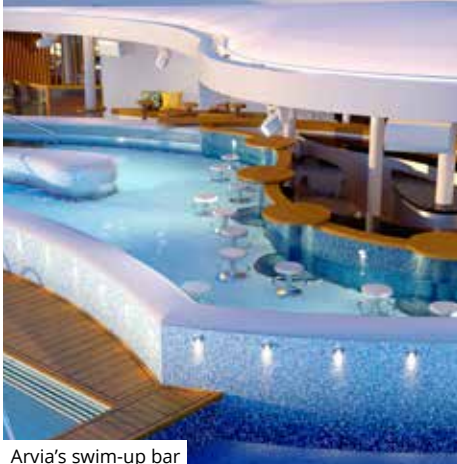

P&O Cruises ships cater for a variety of ages and tastes. There is no 'one-size-fits-all holiday' and the variety across the fleet reflects that.

Most of all though I am so looking forward to Green & Co feat. Mizuhana, which is a new restaurant exclusive to Arvia that will offer guests deliciously crafted fish and plant-based dishes alongside a sushi bar.

WHICH OF ARVIA'S FEATURES REALLY MAKE THE MOST OF THE CARIBBEAN DESTINATIONS SHE WILL BE VISITING?

DESTINATIONS SHE WILL BE VISITING?

From the very initial concept, Arvia has been created to be the epitome of a sunshine resort and developed to be

Arvia's swim-up bar

WHAT ARE YOU MOST EXCITED TO SEE ON ARVIA FOR THE FIRST TIME?

There are so many new innovations on Arvia it's hard to choose one, but I can't wait to see Greatest Days – The Official Take That Musical in The Headliner's Theatre, which is exclusive to Arvia and will be a fantastic addition to the entertainment on board. There is a new swim-up bar, a first for P&O Cruises, where guests will be able to enjoy a cocktail or two in stunning surroundings.

an ideal way to enjoy the Caribbean's turquoise waters and white sandy beaches. Every facet, including the retractable SkyDome, pools, bars, Altitude Skywalk high ropes and Grand Atrium, has been designed to provide exceptional views of the ocean, seashore and surrounding destinations. There are also exciting new shore experiences and Caribbean ports of call including La Romana in the Dominican Republic.

HOW DO YOU EXPECT SHIP DESIGN AND THE ONBOARD OFFERING WILL EVOLVE OVER THE COMING YEARS? WILL P&O CRUISES SHIPS CONTINUE TO GET BIGGER, OR ARE THERE ANY PLANS TO INTRODUCE SMALLER SHIPS TO THE FLEET?

P&O Cruises ships cater for a variety of ages and tastes. There is no 'one-size-fits-all holiday' and the variety across the fleet reflects that. The itineraries on the ships are designed to match the guests they attract so that there is something for everyone. Similarly, the shore experiences in those destinations range from thrill-seeking RIB rides in the Fjords, off-the-beaten-track trails in Tenerife, or simply enjoying beautiful food and wine in a Mediterranean vineyard. The spaces on board the ships all allow for different 'moments' – so there are larger state-of-the-art theatres, intimate bars and corners to curl up with a glass of Olly Smith's wine and a book.

WHAT ARE THE PLANS FOR ITINERARIES MOVING FORWARD, CAN CUSTOMERS EXPECT ANY MORE UNUSUAL DESTINATIONS TO CHOOSE FROM?

We are constantly listening to feedback from guests to understand where they would like to visit next on their holidays. We're excited to introduce Ibiza to our Britannia itineraries next summer, as well as having more overnight calls in places such as Lisbon, Barcelona and Tenerife. Guests can stay longer and get a new perspective on a destination and enjoy some of the authentic nightlife and culture.

DO YOU HAVE A FAVOURITE DESTINATION THAT P&O CRUISES VISITS, AND WHY?

I can't wait to go to Ibiza on board Britannia next summer, but the Caribbean is also very special as each island has its own different vibe, charm and national dish, all of which are fantastic.

WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU HAVE FOR ANYONE WHO HASN'T TRAVELLED WITH P&O CRUISES BEFORE?

A P&O Cruises holiday offers great value for money with full-board dining, selected drinks, accommodation, children's clubs and entertainment all included.

It also offers a hassle-free way of travelling, as there is no luggage limit on cruises from the UK and by paying for everything in pounds, there are no currency exchange worries.

Dining at Sindhu

We offer lots of holidays departing from Southampton, so there is no hanging around for your holiday - it starts as soon as you get on board!

There's always an extensive range of dining options for every palate, from fleet favourites such as The Epicurean, Sindhu and The Glass House, or Iona icons such as The Keel & Cow and The Olive Grove. We also bring culinary expertise to our holidays; for example, queen of contemporary Caribbean cooking and Local Food Hero Shivi Ramoutar will celebrate her passion for Caribbean cuisine with a range of exclusive dishes on board Arvia, while acclaimed Spanish chef José Pizarro brings the taste of the Mediterranean to both Iona and Arvia.

The expertise doesn't just end in our restaurants; we've partnered with Take That to bring Greatest Days - The Official Take That Musical to Arvia's line-up of show-stopping entertainment. Launching in December 2022, Arvia will be the only place in the world where guests will be able to watch this captivating show.

We have the widest choice of entertainment and contemporary stage shows, including Festival, a modern story with feel-good anthems, and aerial shows by Creativiva on board Iona and Arvia, which brings acrobatics, aerial acts, physical theatre, dance and music to guests in a stunning setting.

For those who want to test their head for heights, we're introducing a high ropes experience, tropical themed mini-golf and water splash zone on the new top-deck Altitude experience on Arvia. Our brand-new ship will also be home to Mission Control, a unique immersive experience, combining an escape game with multimedia simulation and a live-action story.

WHAT TRAVEL TRENDS DO YOU THINK WILL EMERGE IN 2023?

After the last few years, we know that guests are increasingly looking for ever-more thoughtful and meaningful travel experiences where they can really connect with the destination.

Our new overnight stays in port, world cruises and longer discovery itineraries including Canada and New England will allow guests the time and space to enjoy a truly memorable holiday experience.

Exploration journeys are also becoming increasingly popular, particularly with our new-to-cruise-guests, so we expect to see a busy Fjords season again where guests can enjoy helicopter rides, thrilling experiences designed by former SAS personnel or tranquil yoga in mountain retreats.

Above all everyone wants value for money. A cruise, with all that is included, provides a holiday with unrivalled service, entertainment and experiences at unbeatable value.

SO MUCH MORE ON BOARD

Arvia

You'll never run out of things to do on P&O Cruises newest ship, Arvia. There are so many more ways to spend your days at sea, alongside the endless entertainment and fabulous food on board.

Relaxation and wellness are a key part of any holiday, and on Arvia you'll be taken good care of. Oasis Spa is the place to relax, rejuvenate and recharge. Leave your cares at the door and choose from an array of wellness spaces, therapies and beauty treatments. Or get your blood pumping in Arvia's Gym & Health Club, with state-of-the-art equipment, a wide range of classes and guidance from professional personal trainers and well-being consultants. And whether you're after a holiday spruce-up or a whole new look, the expert team of stylists, therapists and make-up specialists at the hair and beauty salon will make your wishes their command.

If retail therapy is more up your street, you could have a wander along The Avenue. The meandering walkways and inviting open-plan spaces cover over 900 square metres and offer premium fashion, accessories, fine watches, jewellery, beauty and wellness products and more. You'll find more than 200 brands in this shopping haven, including favourites such as Tudor watches and Mulberry, 30 brands new to P&O Cruises, among them Rado watches, and 25 sustainable brands. Arvia will also feature a new dedicated men's area with a barber station, plus a first-at-sea Swarovski 'Wonderlab' concept store and a fabulous 'design your own' fine jewellery bar.

For a peaceful afternoon amble, Whitewall Galleries provides the perfect spot. Arvia will feature the largest collection of art from Whitewall Galleries yet seen at sea. In 2023, an artist sailing programme will bring some of the most exciting contemporary artists on board to showcase bespoke collections and give live painting demonstrations.

Why not create your own artistic memories at The Photo Gallery, where you can work with a professional photographer for an exclusive photoshoot or have your portrait taken in one of the ship's most stunning locations? New to P&O Cruises, Arvia also boasts a 360-degree photo booth that captures not only the moment but also the stunning surrounding scenery.

Guests are recommended to book shore experiences on My P&O Cruises before their holiday begins but there are always opportunities on board to plan time ashore. Arvia offers a range of exciting new shore experiences, so whether you'd like to bliss out with yoga on the beach in the Canary Islands, visit a honey collective in the Caribbean or explore the Mediterranean one tapa at a time, you'll find plenty of shoreside inspiration.

SILVERSEA'S LITTLE LUXURIES

SILVERSEA promises to transport its customers to some of the most stunning destinations the world has to offer, in nothing short of ultimate comfort and elegance. After spending a few nights on board Silver Spirit, our Editor Emma highlights just some of the little luxuries you can enjoy with Silversea.

HOME, SUITE HOME

When Silversea promises spacious cabins - sorry, suites - they certainly deliver. But it's not just the spaciousness that makes your home from home that little bit special. Bulgari toiletries come as standard, and a super swanky robe and slippers are also provided for you to slink around your space in.

The bathrooms are equally as impressive and come complete with marble surfaces and plenty of space to offload all your lotions and potions. You won't have to worry about becoming cocooned in a flimsy shower curtain either, as there's a separate bath and shower, complete with glass screen.

Hydromassage tub with Bulgari products

Owner's Suite, Silver Spirit

Panorama Suite, Silver Spirit

BUTLER SERVICE IN EVERY SUITE

Each suite on board comes with a personalised butler service, regardless of which category you book. Yes, you read that right ... from delivering a pot of tea and biscuits as you lounge on the balcony - sorry, veranda - to polishing your sunglasses when you haphazardly discard them on the dressing table, they quickly become a key part of your onboard experience. But don't worry, they will take your lead and be as discreet or attentive as you like. Now, where's that glass of chilled champagne...?

INCLUDED SHORE EXCURSIONS

Silversea's excursions are included in the cruise fare, and the quality you experience on board continues when you step ashore. Gone are the days of traipsing around a destination bored senseless behind a flag-wielding tour guide; there are so many trips to choose from that it doesn't matter whether you're an adrenaline junkie, wine connoisseur or history buff. Best of all, most only run for a few hours, so you'll still have plenty of time to explore your port of call independently or recuperate back on the ship.

Emma with Julie from Silversea on a wine tasting excursion from Rovinj

HOW FANCY!

Special mention must go to those 'oooh, how fancy' moments you have on board a Silversea cruise. Having a tub of chilled caviar delivered to your suite to nibble on as you get ready for dinner soon becomes a nightly ritual, while a choice of the best-smelling bath salts presented by your butler makes you realise the whole experience is far from ordinary. Nothing is too much for the staff on board - they deliver everything with a smile on their face and quickly know you by name. Impressive stuff!

RAISE A GLASS (OR MUG)

When Silversea says that drinks are included, they really mean it. There's an expert sommelier on board, professionally trained in France and equipped with all the knowledge you need to choose a darn good wine. Champagne is free-flowing like it's going out of fashion, and don't even get us started on the incredible cocktails! Of course, as you'd expect from a six-star cruise line, non-alcoholic drinks are just as readily available; from mocktails to freshly-pressed juices, Illy coffee to exquisite teas, keeping hydrated really won't be a problem.

A first look at NORWEGIAN PRIMA

SOME SHIPS manage to steal the spotlight long before they are even built - and it's fair to say Norwegian Prima is one of them.

Prima is an apt name for the latest NCL ship in more ways than one. Not only is she a first-in-class ship, but was also the first passenger cruise ship to be christened in the Icelandic capital of Reykjavik. Add her celebrity godmother into the mix - none other than popstar Katy Perry - and it's hardly surprising that Prima is one of the most hotly anticipated ships of recent years.

And those firsts only continued, as Editor of Into the Blue Emma was among the guests invited on the inaugural voyage, which also happened to be her first experience of an NCL ship.

Emma in front of
Norwegian Prima

There's always something quite fun (and at times frustrating) about finding your way around deck upon deck of entirely new territory. Add a time constraint to the mix - a week, in my case - and you suddenly find yourself feeling like you're on a TV game show. As soon as I stepped on board and saw the stunning Penrose Atrium, I was a more-than-willing contestant. Prima boasts a high guest-to-space ratio - and it really shows. Weighing in at a healthy 143,500 gross register tonnes, she's by no means the biggest ship to launch in recent times, and is still a good 2,000 passengers short of the largest I've ever sailed on.

The best way I can describe Prima is like an expertly packed suitcase (bear with me on this one). Every square inch has been maximised to its full potential, providing everything you could ever want and need from a cruise ship with a few added extras thrown in for good measure. These are just some of my personal highlights.

EVERYDAY ESSENTIALS

A cruise ship wouldn't be a cruise ship without the main restaurant, but Prima takes things up a notch by offering two choices: Hudson's and The Commodore Room. Both will satisfy your need for perfectly starched napkins and silverware so well polished it practically glitters, providing a core menu of signature dishes and other additions throughout the cruise.

Surfside Cafe and Surfside Grill - or the buffet restaurants, to you and I - are where, despite your best intentions, you can't help but walk away with a medley of dishes that shouldn't go together, but somehow do. A similar experience awaits in the Indulge Food Hall where, with the aid of a tablet device, you can order foodie delights ranging from tapas to curries, soups to salads.

Indulge Food Hall

As far as drinking establishments go, The Observatory Lounge is reminiscent of the Crow's Nest I've seen on many other ships that never fails to be one of my favourite spaces. Floor-to-ceiling windows at the front of the ship give you an incredible view of your surroundings, whether that's the expanse of the ocean or whichever port you're docking in for the day. The Local Bar and Grill was also a popular spot. Pull up a bar stool or swing away the afternoon in a suspended seat - the pints are cold and the music is good and, in my opinion at least, the smaller area on the port side serves the best breakfast on board.

Observation Lounge

The Commodore Room

DON YOUR GLAD RAGS

NCL prides itself on not holding formal nights, but that doesn't mean there isn't ample opportunity to dust off those outfits you've saved for special occasions. With no fewer than eight speciality restaurants on board, including everything from the zing of Mexican cuisine in Los Lobos to the Japanese elegance of Nama and Hasuki, prepare for your tastebuds to be well and truly tantalised.

And that's where Prima's predictability stops. For me, this ship was all about understated elegance; she has more 'wow' moments than you can shake your lanyard at and her interiors have come straight out of a design magazine. Even from the outside she's the centre of attention; the ribbons of blue that adorn her bow are unmistakably NCL and she creates a stunning silhouette in any port she docks in.

The clever use of space comes into sharp focus in the Prima Theatre and Club. In the evening, enjoy a quality, often Broadway-style, show before the area is cleared to make way for Studio 54, a nightclub reminiscent of the glory days of Las Vegas. The music's thumping and the special effects are incredible - but by this point, I wouldn't have expected anything less from this exceptional ship.

FUN AND GAMES

What would that perfectly packed suitcase be without something to keep you entertained? Whether you're a curl up in a comfy corner with a book-type, or a bona fide adrenaline junkie, NCL has you covered.

The Drop is a slide that snakes its way down 10 decks and, because it's dry, you can safely step inside as soon as you're feeling brave enough. Billed as the first free-fall dry slide at sea, it comes with hype you'd usually associate with a theme park ride. "Have you tried The Drop yet?" guests will ask one another, with 'surviving' this particular experience worn almost as a badge of honour. If that doesn't quite satisfy your need for gravity-defying activities, there's also duelling slides in the form of The Rush, while The Wave does unfortunately come with the prerequisite that you will get wet.

From virtual golf to racing car driving, rollercoasters to space travel, no corner of the universe is left unturned.

But the fun doesn't stop there. The Galaxy Pavilion is Prima's onboard gaming centre, home to an entire, well, galaxy, of virtual reality experiences. Each one is charged to your account individually, so a word of caution not to get too carried away. From virtual golf to racing car driving, rollercoasters to space travel, no corner of the universe is left unturned.

If aiming a golf ball at a screen doesn't quite fulfil your ambition to be Tiger Woods, then maybe Tee Time Golf will, a mini golf course that delivers all the fun of the fair. The Bull's Eye is right next door and, you guessed it, is an interactive darts experience. Prima's crowning glory is undoubtedly the Prima Speedway, a three-deck go-karting extravaganza that scales above the centre of the ship. It's great fun for all ages (providing you meet the height and weight requirements, that is) and again, something I'd never encountered before on a cruise ship.

In the event that you need a lie down by this point - which I'm not ashamed to admit I did, on many occasions - then your options are vast. Norwegian Prima doesn't have a traditional promenade deck, and she's proud of it. The closest you'll get is Ocean

Boulevard, which gives a double-sided embrace to Deck 8. Where usually you'd find a walking track, instead there's a multi-million dollar sculpture trail and hands down the most comfortable sun loungers I've ever encountered.

Your other option is The Mandara Spa, home to the first charcoal sauna at sea. This is one of eight thermal spa offerings in this frankly incredible space - just one of many where you have to question whether you're still on a cruise ship.

The Drop

Prima Speedway

Galaxy Pavilion

UNPACKING THE MEMORIES

For all her bells and whistles - or should that be go-karts and slides - Prima is fundamentally an incredible cruise ship. And, just like an expertly packed suitcase, she leaves you feeling kind of smug, knowing that your holiday days have been spent in the best way possible.

The sign of a good ship is when disembarkation day rolls around and it's tinged with just a hint of sadness. The sign of a great ship is when you're trying to scope out the best place to become a stowaway. So, having not found a wardrobe quite big enough to call home, I'll just have to begrudgingly unpack my suitcase safe in the knowledge that Prima might have been my first in many respects, but she will by no means be my last.

Day 6 - Cruising by Hubbard Glacier

Enjoy a full day onboard - fine dining, gracious service, spacious accommodation - and the stunning scenery of Hubbard, North America's longest tidewater glacier.

Day 7 - Cruising Glacier Bay

From your ship you have a front view of the spires, pinnacles and pillars of ice, surrounded by an immense quiet, broken only by the muffled thunder of icebergs being born.

Day 8 - Skagway

Once a turbulent staging point for gold prospectors hell-bent on getting to the Klondike, you can now stroll weathered boardwalks and drop in at old-time saloons at Skagway.

Day 9 - Juneau

From Alaska's scenic capital, take an excursion to the mighty Mendenhall Glacier, opt for salmon fishing or a wildlife cruise.

Day 10 - Ketchikan

Once a fishing village clinging to the shore, visit a park of stately totem poles, or go flight-seeing to the spectacularly scenic Misty Fjords and enjoy a lunch of fresh salmon.

With 'Have it All' we are adding some incredible inclusive extra value to your holiday, as for one simple fare you'll receive four inclusions you'd typically purchase later - a drinks package, speciality dining, Wi-Fi and one or more shore excursions - and you'll save 50% or more on those extras versus buying them separately. 'Have it All' amenities are only available on the cruise section of your Cruisetour.

Terms & Conditions: Fares are per person sharing a twin stateroom including air from London airports. Taxes, Fees & Port Expenses with lead fares as per 14/11/22. Have It All amenities subject to availability, for new bookings only, for 1st/2nd guests only, apply only to the cruise portion of Alaska cruisetours, and are neither transferable nor refundable. Fares are applicable on select 2023 and 2024 departures, excluding Grand Voyages and voyages lasting 3 days or less. Limit: One (1) offer per person, and up to two (2) per stateroom. Signature Beverage Package has a daily limit of 15 beverages, which includes all beverages priced at US$11.00 or lower and includes gratuities. Beverage packages include non-alcoholic beverages such as sodas and specialty coffees. Guests must order beverages one at a time and must be 21 years or older for alcoholic beverages. Sharing not permitted. Package excludes purchases made in Signature Shops, Mini Bar and In-Room Dining. Speciality dining is based on cruise duration and ship type. Offer excludes Speciality Dining Events in the Pinnacle Grill such as Sel De Mer, De Librije and Sommelier Dinner. Reservations and dining times will be available to pre-reserve. Shore excursion offer is based on cruise duration. For 6-9-day voyages, guests can choose one excursion (up to US$100 value) or apply US$100 off any one tour. For 10-20-day voyages, choose two excursions (up to US$100 value per tour) or apply US$100 off each of any two tours. Wi-Fi Surf Package. All onboard Internet usage is subject to HAL standard policies, which may limit browsing of some sites due to network security and bandwidth usage. Offer applies to guests 1 & 2 only in a stateroom. Offer and/or its terms may be modified or withdrawn without prior notice. Other restrictions and exclusions may apply. Ships' Registry: The Netherlands.

ARVIA Insider

DETAILS of the new P&O Cruises ship Arvia are starting to emerge, and with our very own Arvia Insider Millie on the case, who better to lift the lid on the incredible experiences we can expect to find?

Over the past few weeks, Millie has enjoyed an insight into what guests can discover on board Arvia. Exclusively for Into the Blue, she shares her findings.

Buñuelos de gambas – spicy prawn fritters with lemon aioli

Local Food Heroes Olly Smith and José Pizarro with Millie

Local Food Heroes Olly Smith and José Pizarro

Tapas will be a core part of the food offering on board Arvia, with The Glass House set to feature an array of incredible dishes. Local Food Hero José Pizarro will be behind the menu when Arvia sets sail on her Mediterranean itineraries, with each dish carefully paired with a wine hand-selected by expert Olly Smith. Millie was able to sample José's cuisine first-hand at a private cooking class and wine tasting held at Pizarro, José's London restaurant.

"What really struck me when I met José and Olly was how closely they work together, so the food and wine menus in The Glass House will be a real collaborative effort. José makes his own wines and has a really solid understanding of what's needed to pair the perfect tippie, and Olly has years of experience working alongside leading chefs.

"If the dishes I sampled at Jose's restaurant are anything to go by, guests will be in for a real treat on board Arvia. The hand-cut jamón was incredible - and I never thought I'd enjoy octopus and anchovies so much!"

Valley Adventure Centre

Arvia Insiders group

Altitude Skywalk high ropes experience

One of the entertainment options on Arvia will be Altitude Skywalk, which just so happens to be the first high-ropes experience at sea. Scaling 54 metres above the ocean waves, it's bound to be a hit with all ages. Millie was given a glimpse at what the activity would be like at the Valley Adventure Centre in Jersey.

"It's the first time I'd done anything like this and experiencing the high rope activities gave me a great taster of what to expect from Altitude Skywalk. Moving through all the obstacles and manoeuvring around the course was really good fun and I can only imagine it will be even more exhilarating on board a ship!

"The activity is well-suited to people of all ages, so this will be a popular activity with all the family, especially as it will be included in the cruise fare."

Foraging for pepper dulse

Partnership with The Tidal Rum

Millie's trip to Jersey also saw her visit The Tidal Rum, which will provide a unique blend for Arvia's rum distillery, the first of its kind at sea. This small-batch production ensures the distinct flavour of the drink is maintained, and the botanicals foraged from in and around Jersey can really be identified.

"One of the most distinctive ingredients in The Tidal Rum is pepper dulse, which we foraged during our trip to Jersey. I love trying different rums and the flavour of this one was really unique. I enjoyed some amazing cocktails that were made using the rum, which shows just how versatile it really is."

Salcombe Gin distillery visit and masterclass

Arvia's sister ship Iona boasted the first gin distillery at sea, but those sailing on this brand-new ship won't be missing out as she is also set to produce her own Marabelle gin on Mediterranean itineraries. As Millie discovered, any gin that's made on board will display its own gold-coloured seal to make it easy to identify.

But that's not all. The gin masterclass that has already proved a hit on Iona will also be available on Arvia, giving guests the chance to take away a bottle they have created and flavoured themselves.

"Although we were given free rein to choose whatever ingredients we wanted for our gin, there was an expert on hand to make sure they would taste great together. I went for rose petals with fruit, ginger, lemongrass and lime peel and couldn't believe how great it turned out. I took a bottle home with me and was even able to name and label it myself. It's a really great experience that I know many people will love when they holiday on Arvia!"

FLY TO THE HEART OF PARADISE

Get your holiday in the Caribbean started sooner

On a P&O Cruises fly-cruise holiday, you can fly straight to your ship in the Caribbean and be sipping a mojito in the sun in no time. But don't be fooled into thinking palm-fringed beaches and white sands are all the region has to offer. Each diverse island offers a wealth of charm beyond the breathtaking scenery.

Along these picture-postcard coastlines, lush green forests give way to dazzling tropical beaches, while the bustling towns beyond them are alive with laughter, music and the rich aromas of local cuisine. Each island is overflowing with spice and rustic flavours; jerk chicken, pepperpot beef and goat stew are staples on many a menu. Traditional regional tastes are brought on board Arvia during her time in the Caribbean. The Beach House serves up hearty grills inspired by Latin America and the Caribbean, along with authentic home-cooking favourites from Local Food Hero Shivi Ramoutar.

With overnight calls in Barbados or two full days in St Lucia or Antigua on some P&O Cruises Caribbean fly-cruises, you've plenty of time to explore these treasured islands. You can hit the shore and make them your own or join one of the amazing shore experiences on offer. Whether you fancy swimming with graceful southern stingrays, soaring above the treetops in an adrenalin-fuelled canopy adventure or getting under the skin of traditional West Indian cooking, there's something for everyone.

You could dive into rainbow reefs in Bonaire, lose yourself in calypso music drifting from Barbadian beach cabanas or step back in time at Antigua's 18th-century dockyard. Whatever your bliss, a P&O Cruises Caribbean fly-cruise is bubbling over with possibility.

P&O Cruises is offering 13 and 14-night Caribbean fly-cruise holidays on Britannia until March 2023, and 7 to 22-night fly-cruise holidays on Arvia from January 2023 until March 2023. Both ships' Caribbean fly-cruises then begin again from October 2023 to March 2024 and again in October 2024 to March 2025.

Get your holiday off to a flying start

Maximise your time on holiday, flying there and back. In two weeks you can explore as many as nine islands – and only unpack once. Here are just a few reasons to fly with P&O Cruises:

- Your flights and transfers are included in the price of your holiday – and on selected Caribbean flights you can upgrade to Premium Economy.
- You can fly straight to the sun in no time.
- You can discover an amazing collection of places in a shorter holiday with less time spent at sea.
- P&O Cruises makes it easy. Representatives will be on hand at the airport to direct you to your coach for the transfer between the airport and your ship.
- Fly from London or available regional UK airports, which vary by ship and cruise itinerary.

WINTER SUN SEEKERS

HUDDLING UP with a hot chocolate in front of a roaring open fire has its charm when winter rolls around. But as romantic as this take on the change in weather may be, there's something quite comforting about knowing that sunnier climes are just a journey away.

Trade the greyest of greys for an altogether more uplifting winter escape. Near or far, short break or extended getaway, these holiday hotspots are guaranteed to provide the perfect antidote to the British winter.

The Secret Garden, Old Medina, Marrakech

MOROCCO

Morocco never fails to provide an assault on the senses. The smell of incense wafts through the air as you lose your sense of direction in the souks, while a call to prayer reverberates from a nearby minaret. It's Africa but not as we know it; Morocco is deceptively easy to get to, especially as cruise lines continue to add this northern state to their itineraries.

From mystical Marrakech to under-the-radar Rabat, there's something endearing about this desert-swathed cap of North Africa. Take advantage of the cooler temperatures and fewer tourists when winter arrives; you won't have to jostle fellow holidaymakers out of the way as you barter in the souks, and a cup of traditional mint tea is all you'll need to warm up or cool down, depending on what the day dictates.

Tangier is one of those places that has slowly sidled onto tourists' to-do lists. Less confident than nearby Casablanca, its strategic importance as the gateway between Europe and Africa owes the city 2,500 years-plus of history that's hard to replicate anywhere else in Morocco. Tangier's Medina is encircled by the walls of a 15th century Portuguese fortress, where getting lost is all part of the fun. The streets are narrow and the architecture fascinating, and there's just no telling what haul of expertly bartered goods you'll return home with.

Your other options include cosmopolitan Casablanca (minus Humphrey Bogart) and intriguing Ceuta, which boasts something of an identity crisis as a Spanish city located on the Moroccan mainland. It's often referred to as Spain's African Gibraltar - a geographical mind-bender if ever we've heard one - and although a city in name, Ceuta feels on a much less grander scale. The old walls make for a perfect winter stroll and, what would a Spanish city be without a main plaza to peruse? Plaza de los Reyes fits the bill, where you'll be left wondering whether you did actually set foot on the African mainland.

CANARY ISLANDS

It can be easy to forget the Canary Islands are just a short hop from the UK. Laying claim to having one of the best climates on earth, they make for a lucrative year-round holiday hotspot. And while the searing summer temperatures may appeal to some, there's something quite special about visiting during the winter months, as the hullabaloo of the school holidays has subsided, stepping aside for a more tranquil Canary Islands that many know and love. OK, so mercury is unlikely to reach the dizzy heights of the early-30s, but even 10 degrees cooler than that will seem a real treat as you leave UK shores behind.

The opportunities for enjoying a winter break in the Canary Islands are vast. Take Tenerife as the perfect example; whale and dolphin spotting one of nature's greatest spectacles. Flanked by a tiny seaside village, there are much worse ways to spend a winter's afternoon than with a view over the glittering ocean, gorging on the freshest of seafood knowing your thermals are safely packed away.

Gran Canaria is also not to be overlooked. Geologically, the south of the island proves the most alluring, where the surrounding mountains huddle to keep the north-easterly breeze at bay. Playa del Inglés is the place to be, a beach usually laced with tourists that proves to be much more enticing - and less hectic - once winter comes around. With almost three kilometres of golden, sandy beaches to discover (swathes of which you'll have to yourself at this time of year), warming those winter cockles really won't be an issue.

thinking you've entered a sub-tropical oasis much further from home.

Lanzarote is another of the pleasantly warm neighbours, where temperatures hover around a respectable 20 degrees C. There's something quite magical about the way in which the light strikes the land at this time of year; eager photographers will often be spotted, tripod in hand, trying to capture the lunar landscapes from their best angle. El Golfo - or the Green Lagoon as it's often known - has taken up residence in a former volcanic crater and shimmers with emerald green as

THE CARIBBEAN

The Caribbean is a winter holidaymaker's delight. After a few airborne-hours - or a Transatlantic crossing, if you're that way inclined - you'll be transported to this truly tropical nirvana. Aim for the winter months and be smug in the knowledge you have safely dodged the rainy season that straddles the middle of the year. If you want to while away those winter days vegetating in the Caribbean sunshine, we won't judge. But rest assured that although these shores serve up some of the finest vistas you'll ever clap eyes on, there is far much more to be discovered.

We're here to tell you that it doesn't matter which island you choose to soak away those winter blues, each serves up its own heady mix of holiday delights. Scale the dizzy heights of a rainforest canopy on a zipline, or keep your feet on terra firme and dip a toe in the bathwater-warmth of the sea - the Caribbean is as active or chilled as you want or need it to be.

But what use would we be if we didn't at least present a couple of well-thought-out recommendations? The Cayman Islands offers a holiday haven, rich with activities and some of the most stunning beaches imaginable. Grand Cayman, as the name suggests, is the largest of these idyllic islands and is home to the rather deceptively named Seven Mile Beach, which in reality spans a little over six. The milky-white sands and crystalline waters are nothing short of inviting, and a stroll along the shoreline will see you take in restaurants, beach bars and everything in between - and it would be rude not to stop, right? Trade that mug of mulled wine for a rum-infused cocktail this winter ... you won't regret it.

St. Lucia is another island of contrasts; from scrubland to sugar-soft beaches, hours will float by without a care in the world. The Pitons dominate the landscape, a pair of volcanic plugs there to be explored or admired, depending on your level of inquisitiveness. Regardless of whether you choose to don your walking boots or flip-flops, you can't help but fall in love with St. Lucia. Head out to Pigeon Island where you'll be regaled with tales of piracy and historical grapples that have seen the island house more landlords than your local watering hole. Special mention must be made for the snorkelling opportunities, which are arguably some of the best in the Caribbean. Rainbow-hued fish flutter amongst the colourful coral and, because you're off the beaten track, there's every chance you'll have them all to yourself. Just perfect!

THE MALDIVES

The Maldives deliver the most technicoloured of tropical offerings, from the dove-white sands to turquoise waters so clear you can see shoals of tropical fish wriggling below ... and not to mention those green-with-envy family and friends you'll leave back home. The Maldives comprise a smattering of literally hundreds of islands - some private - so whittling them down can be quite a task. Rest assured that whichever pocket of paradise you happen upon, you're guaranteed the warmest of welcomes and loftiest of temperatures.

This postcard-perfect oasis offers two quite different experiences, so whether you're a do-everything or do-nothing type, indulging your interests needn't be a problem. While we could describe in fanciful detail the sense of pure elation you'll feel as the sun beats down on your face, ice-cold cocktail in hand, there are more alluring adventures to be had. The Maldives are a diver's delight, with discussions over the most impressive spots often hotly contested. Sharks, turtles and rays are lucky enough to call the islands home and with an instructor by your side, there's every chance you will make their acquaintance.

However you choose to spend your time in the Maldives, it's sure to make it onto your shortlist of best-spent winter holiday destinations.

And who's to say you have to limit your stay to just one island? Explore a myriad of Maldivian delights by hopping across the atolls; a cruise will make this as easy as you like, and you can further put your sea legs to the test aboard a speedboat with the salty sea air in your hair. The Maldives are all about slotting together the jigsaw pieces of what makes your perfect holiday. Our best advice? Pair island hopping with a handful of shore excursions, and spend the rest of your time basking in the winter sun. A sunset cruise is one of our more romantic suggestions; as the evening sky starts to bruise and the island paradise that surrounds you transforms into a silhouette, the only thing left to do is sit back and take in the view. It's not uncommon for dolphins to emerge from the glassy waters at this time of day.

Should your holiday not be complete with at least one cultural fix, find time to visit one of the Maldives' native islands. While the region might have worked hard to earn its tourist mettle, there are of course people who still call it home. Bandidhoo is just one inhabited island where the locals will greet you with open arms, showcasing their handicrafts and an altogether simpler way of life that's in sharp contrast to the rest of the islands. However you choose to spend your time in the Maldives, it's sure to make it onto your shortlist of best-spent winter holiday destinations.

CRUISING THE DANUBE

WITH AMAWATERWAYS | REVIEWED BY EMMA, EDITOR OF INTO THE BLUE

Passau, Germany

OVER THE past 20-odd years, I've done more ocean cruises than I'd care to admit, but river cruising has always been something of an unknown entity. Friends, family and colleagues have all returned from river cruising absolutely raving about the experience and not one to miss out on any sort of adventure, I couldn't wait to follow suit.

When AmaWaterways invited me on board AmaSonata for their Melodies of the Danube cruise, I jumped at the chance. They've been transporting passengers along some of the world's most iconic waterways for the past two decades, so who better to introduce me to this new way of cruising? Case packed (including my best guess as to what constituted a 'river cruise wardrobe'), I boarded a flight to Budapest for my seven-night voyage from Hungary to Germany.

Main Lounge on AmaSonata

Emma with AmaSonata's Captain Marcel

Budapest cityscape, Hungary

First impressions

Touching down in an international airport can be a real assault on the senses. From locating passport control to figuring out which luggage carousel you need to stake out, it can be quite overwhelming - and don't get me started on how to find your way to your accommodation! AmaWaterways ensured my arrival in Budapest was as stress-free as possible; a representative greeted me in the arrivals hall and ushered me towards my included transfer. It was an immaculate Mercedes-Benz taxi, complete with plenty of water to help me hydrate following my flight. Talk about great first impressions!

A short drive later, I arrived at AmaSonata, where the wide-smiled crew were there to carry my suitcase straight to my stateroom. The check-in process was quick and easy and before I knew it, I was sitting in the restaurant enjoying my first - and far-from-last - three-course meal of the cruise. Just what I needed after a long afternoon of travelling.

Sea bream

Destination, destination, destination

In the space of a week, I visited four different countries along the Danube (well, five if you include the Czech Republic, to which I hopped over the border while docked in Linz). One benefit I hadn't even considered before embarking on the river cruise was that it is possible to visit more than one destination in a day; on day four, we docked in both Weissenkirchen and Grein in Austria, while on the final day of the cruise we stopped in the German ports of Passau and Vilshofen.

Every place we visited was as picture-postcard perfect as I'd hoped, and the relaxed pace of cruising down the Danube made the experience all the more pleasurable. Watching the scenery saunter past was one of those cruising 'wow' moments, especially as the rolling hills, dense forest and quaint churches felt within touching distance. If you've never cruised through a lock before then prepare to be amazed - this centuries-old technology impressed me every time we moved on to a new section of the Danube.

On an AmaWaterways river cruise, there is the option to enjoy an included excursion in each port of call. They use local guides in every single port and destinations were really brought to life through their in-depth knowledge. Each passenger has a QuietVox device in their cabin; quite simply, it's an audio console that is hooked up to the tour leader's microphone so you can hear everything they say from a distance. If, like me, you enjoy wandering off and taking photos while the tour guide regales you with various facts, these are quite impressive little gadgets.

One of my personal standout moments of the cruise was an exclusive Oktoberfest celebration, held in our final port of Vilshofen.

Another point worth noting is that an AmaWaterways excursion will run regardless of how many people have booked. On the Tastes of Slovakia Tour (a walking tour-cum-beer tasting) I enjoyed in Bratislava, there were only six of us taking part, and the same could be said for the Dürnstein Walking Tour when we docked in Weissenkirchen. It was great to know that no matter how many, or few, people had signed up, I wouldn't miss out on the excursions I had my heart set on.

The standout port on my itinerary was Vienna, a city I had heard so much about but never experienced myself. I enjoyed a bus tour of some of the city's highlights, before setting off on foot to really get into the heart of the Austrian capital. We didn't set sail until 11pm that evening, so some of my fellow guests took the opportunity to book tickets to one of the city's world-famous operas. Shuttle buses were provided, so there was no need to get to grips with the public transport system.

One of my personal standout moments of the cruise was an exclusive Oktoberfest celebration, held in our final port of Vilshofen. A festival tent was set up right next to our ship, where the beer flowed and pretzels were consumed by the dozen. I can't think of a more perfect ending to the cruise, as the captain, guests and many of the crew enjoyed the final hours of our time together in true German fashion. Prost!

Bratislava, Slovakia

Vienna, Austria

Discerning tastes

No cruise (in my mind, at least) is complete without exceptional cuisine - and AmaWaterways was no different. Every meal was truly delicious and served at a table adorned with a perfectly starched tablecloth and 'proper' napkin. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are all served in the main restaurant, but snacks are available pretty much all day in the Lounge if you want something a little lighter.

AmaWaterways was the first cruise company to become a member of the prestigious gastronomic society Chaîne des Rôtisseurs, so the quality of the food really shouldn't have come as a surprise. For one night of the cruise we were served a special, French-inspired menu - from the melt-in-mouth lamb leg to crepes suzette that couldn't be more authentic if we were a few hundred miles away in France itself; it was a true highlight.

I must also give special mention to The Chef's Table. Once every cruise, guests can sign up for an exquisite seven-course tasting menu, served in a separate restaurant at the aft of the ship. Each course was meticulously prepared right in front of our eyes, paired with wines produced in regions along the Danube. Only 28 guests are served per evening, so it's a really intimate experience that brings you closer to the destination you're visiting and the culinary expertise on board.

There's also the opportunity to try a cocktail or two before the evening meal at AmaWaterways' complimentary Sip and Sail Cocktail Hour.

As for drinks, hot beverages - tea, coffee and hot chocolate - are available in the Lounge day and night, so if you need an early-morning pick-me-up or decaffeinated night cap, then don't worry. There's the option of sparkling wine at breakfast if you're that way inclined, as well as a selection of soft drinks, beers, wines and spirits included with lunch and the evening meal. This was when the attentive service really shone through; during my first night on board, I discussed my wine preferences with the waitress, joking that "I'm an ABC drinker ... anything but chardonnay!" Four days later, the paired wine of the evening was exactly that and, without prompting, she automatically brought me the red wine to try. Anyone who pays that much attention to my wine preferences is a winner in my book!

There's also the opportunity to try a cocktail or two before the evening meal at AmaWaterways' complimentary Sip and Sail Cocktail Hour. Choose from a selection of expertly crafted cocktails (I can personally recommend the cosmopolitan) and other drinks served in the Lounge, a modern-yet-cosy space with large windows where you could watch the scenery roll past.

River reflections

For me, AmaWaterways makes the journey special through those little extras along the way. Whether it's the crew member who brings you an ice-cold glass of water unprompted when it's hot out on deck, to the complimentary postcards you can send to loved ones back home, there are many moments that will stay with me for years to come.

What AmaWaterways are successful in doing is bringing destinations to life. You're not just spending a few hours there, you are really getting to know a port through its food, cultures and people - and for me, that's what really sets this river cruise apart.

DISCOVER WINTER YOUR WAY

P&O Cruises brand-new winter 2024/25
holiday collection is here

*5% booking discount is applicable to all new guests making a new Select Price booking from P&O Cruises new winter 2024/25 collection before 1 December 2022. 10% booking discount is applicable to guests who have previously sailed with P&O Cruises making a new Select Price booking from their new winter 2024/25 collection before 1 December 2022. Please note the 5% newcomer booking discount has already been applied to prices displayed on the website. To see the price inclusive of the 10% past guest discount, log into My Account. This discount is additional to Select Price benefits and is not applicable on Early Savers. †5% low deposit is applicable to all guests making a new booking from P&O Cruises new winter 2024/25 collection before

The P&O Cruises winter 2024/25 holiday collection is packed full of more variety than ever before. Get set for dazzling destinations, welcoming ships, relaxation, adventure and winter just as you want it. And what's more, you can get up to 10% off an applicable Select Price holiday if you book before 1 December 2022¹.

If you've less time to explore and a Short Break takes your fancy, you could discover Bruges and Cherbourg on Arvia. Stroll through autumn leaves along romantic canal-ways and people-watch from a traditional French café with a sumptuous coffee in hand. Or, if you've been daydreaming of golden sands and stunning cities, Arvia can make your wishes come true in Spain and Portugal. With an evening in Lisbon on her nine-night holiday, you can watch the bustling city go from daytime fun to sunset chic.

Arvia's also offering more time in your favourite Caribbean destinations during winter 2024/25, with an overnight call in Antigua on some 14-night fly-cruise holidays sailing from Barbados. Escape the winter blues and sink into one (or two, or three) of Antigua's 365 beaches of soft, white sand, cabanas and beach bars serving up a delicious blend of rum punch, reggae and calypso music.

Or, if it's magnificent volcanic beaches, colour-filled reef-diving sites and quaint fishing villages that are calling your name, Britannia will offer two full days in St Lucia on her Caribbean fly-cruise holidays.

Arvia's sister ship, Iona, is also heading to the Caribbean for the first time in January 2025, with a 35-night holiday sailing from Southampton. Two full days in Tenerife and Barbados will give you even more time to get to the heart of each exciting destination.

In 2025 Aurora will depart on her Amazon and Caribbean Exploration. This 65-night Grand Tour explores faraway destinations, with an opportunity to sail the mighty Amazon River, transit part of the Panama Canal and pass by the infamous Devil's Island.

Discovery takes on a new meaning on a P&O Cruises World Cruise, and on board Arcadia you'll be surprised at the number of destinations you can immerse yourself in. On a 99-night adventure beginning in January 2025, Arcadia will return to the stunning skyline of San Francisco, the breathtaking scenery and unique volcanoes of Hawaii's Hilo and the colourful coral reefs of Sharm el Sheikh.

With all these trips and many more on offer in the P&O Cruises winter 2024/25 collection, why not jump into the holiday spirit and winter your way?

P&O Cruises is offering new guests 5% off the winter 2024/25 collection's Select Price holidays booked by 1 December 2022, while past guests can get 10% off.* Peninsular Club members can also get an additional 5% off selected holidays^Δ. There's also a 5% low deposit offer across all Select Price and Early Saver holidays in the collection⁹.

36 HOURS In Sydney

IT'S EASY to see why Sydney is often mistaken for Australia's capital. Iconic sights dot their way across this sprawling metropolis, which features high on intrepid tourists' wish lists from near and far. But for the time being, Sydney will have to settle for being the capital of New South Wales - and oh, what a capital it is.

Sydney Opera House

Surfing at sunset

The Blue Mountains

Swimming pool at Bondi Beach

Sydney skyline

Sydney is easy on the eye and many of its must-see destinations rely heavily on those polished good looks. The best advice we can offer is that you tackle your time here like a true Sydneysider - with swagger, serendipity and a sense that you have all the hours in the world.

There are certain rites of passage you have to follow as a tourist here and, luckily, two of the most notable are right next to each other. Sydney Opera House and the Harbour Bridge dominate Circular Quay, lending themselves perfectly to those 'guess where we are?' selfies. It's at the foot of the Harbour Bridge where you'll find The Rocks, or the birthplace of modern Sydney, if you will. The Rocks Discovery Museum will lay out its history should you be that way inclined, or you could use a fraction of your 36 hours being tempted away from the main drag, where a warren of cobbled streets will appeal to your inner explorer. Bars, restaurants and pubs punctuate these environs, but if you'd rather have some structure to your adventure, free walking tours operate on selected days.

Bondi Beach may draw the crowds with its name alone, but we're here to tell you that Sydney has far more endearing beachside haunts. If your tourist-inspired curiosity can't possibly help but be drawn here, then use it as the starting point for the Bondi to Coogee Coastal

Many would argue that you simply cannot visit Sydney without embarking on the Manly Ferry.

Walk (pronounced cud-gee, as we found out the hard way). After you've glanced at the swathes of golden sand and thought "is this it?", you'll be treated to some of Sydney's most stunning coastal scenery as you scamper along the cliff tops. Get your fix of intriguing sculptures as waves foam against the coastline, and scores of surfers do what they do best.

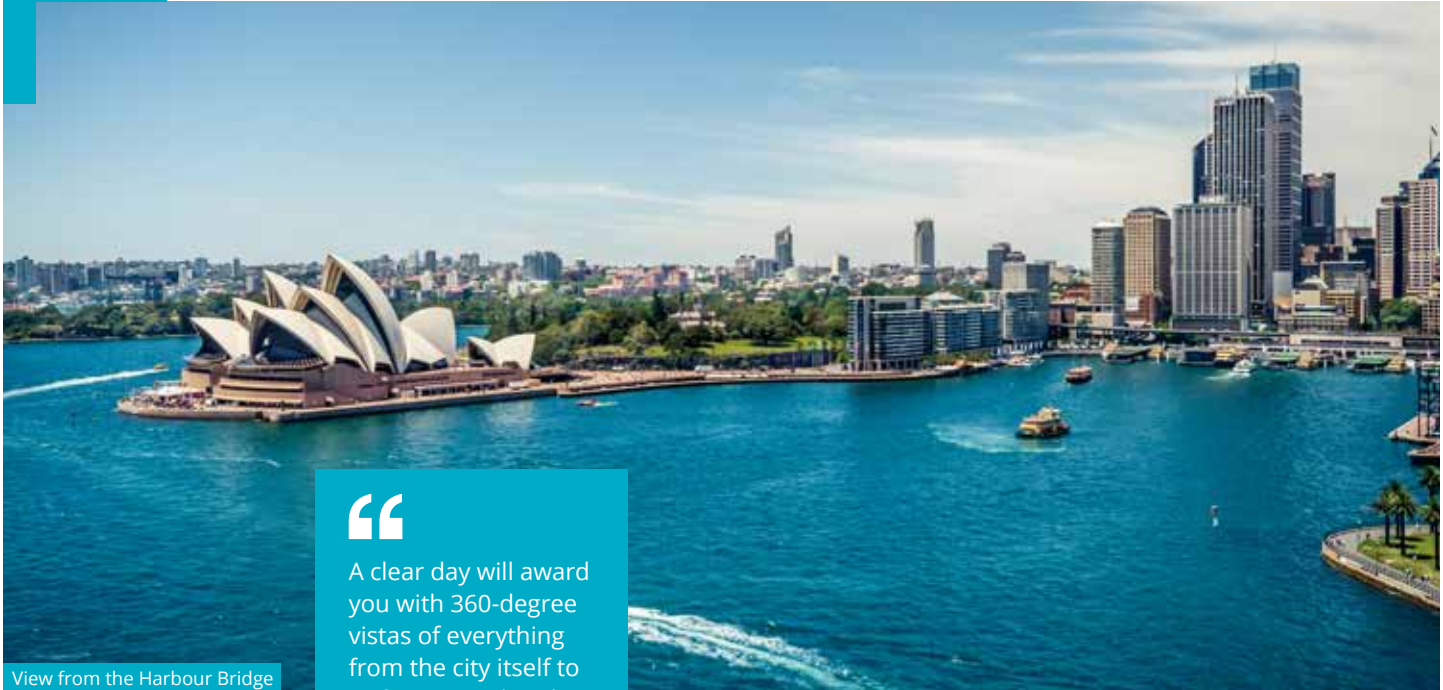

Many would argue that you simply cannot visit Sydney without embarking on the Manly Ferry. This is far from a sightseeing boat, although when you consider exactly what's on the agenda as you travel the seven nautical miles, it's not difficult to see why many treat it as such. The Prime Minister's official residence of Kirribilli House comes into sharp focus as you bob across the harbour, as does Sydney National Park. And, you guessed it, incredible views of the Opera House and Harbour Bridge are never far away.

A clear day will award you with 360-degree vistas of everything from the city itself to as far out as the Blue Mountains.

Sydney Harbour Bridge - or the coathanger as it's affectionately known among locals - is the place to be for exceptional views, but there's just one catch ... you'll have to climb it. No matter how au fait with heights you claim to be, there's something quite exhilarating about scaling a ladder as cars roar past on one side and trains trundle by on the other. Wobbly legs aside, the views once you reach the top are nothing short of incredible. A clear day will award you with 360-degree vistas of everything from the city itself to as far out as the Blue Mountains.

Of course, when you scale Sydney Harbour Bridge you're missing out on a view of one of the city's most notable landmarks: the Sydney Harbour Bridge. This is where the Sydney Tower Eye comes in, a needle firmly placed in the heart of the city that lays claim to being the Southern Hemisphere's second-tallest observation tower. This, coupled with the fact it's the highest building in Sydney, will leave you with more amazing bird's-eye photographs than your camera roll can handle. The Observation Deck enables you to survey your surroundings in comfort, or you can sign up for a SkyWalk if nothing short of unadulterated views will do.

EAT AND DRINK

Sydney Chinatown

In historical terms Australia is still very much the new kid on the block. As such, typical Aussie food is still finding its feet, but it's the melting pot of cultures that makes this country's fare that bit special. Chinatown is well worth a visit and although Sydney is far from being home to the only one on earth, having tried a few, we can safely say it's amongst the best.

Yum cha might be a Chinese tradition that dates back centuries, but it's had somewhat of a resurgence on these shores. Literally meaning 'drink tea', yum cha is best observed as a late-morning or brunch-like treat, where tempting morsels of Chinese deliciousness are pushed around on a trolley waiting to be picked. The Eight in Haymarket is one of the finest; keep your fingers crossed for the steamed dumplings, which never fail to satisfy a hunger pang or two.

That's not to say, however, that Australia doesn't have its own dishes to serve up for the culinary world. Among them are lamingtons, named so after a former governor of Queensland. These square sponge cakes are filled with jam and cream, encased in chocolate icing and doused in desiccated coconut for good measure. Any bakery worth its weight in these cuboid treats will serve them by the dozen and, as any Australian will tell you, all a good lamington ever needs is a decent cup of tea to go with it.

Lamingtons

Achieving the perfect view of Sydney doesn't always have to be adrenaline-fuelled, despite what we might have suggested. Nestled at the top of Westfield Tower, Bar 83 champions Australian produce through food and drink and everything in between. As Sydney's highest bar, you'll have 260-degree views of the city and a cocktail in your hand - what could be better than that?

If you do find yourself at The Rocks, The Glenmore is the place to be. Here, Sydneysiders invite you to pull up a chair and grab a schooner - this Aussie icon has been serving customers since 1921, and as soon as you see the views from the rooftop bar, you'll realise why. But be warned, you could be in this for the long haul.

THE CAPTAIN'S FISH BISQUE

Wow your dinner party guests with this elegant fish bisque from Celebrity Cruises, packed with flavour and fresh seafood.

Serves 6

INGREDIENTS:

- > 3 tablespoons of unsalted butter
- > 1 chopped white onion
- > 1 minced garlic clove
- > 2 carrots, peeled and chopped
- > 1 celery stalk, chopped
- > 1 cup of chopped fennel
- > 4 chopped plum tomatoes
- > 1/2 cup of leeks, chopped and soaked in water
- > 6 chopped button mushrooms
- > A splash of Pernod
- > 7 cups of fish stock
- > 1 cup of tomato juice
- > 1 cup of heavy whipping cream
- > 1 bay leaf
- > 1 teaspoon of saffron threads
- > 1 bouquet garni
- > Salt and pepper to taste

TO GARNISH:

- > 18 fresh mussels, cleaned
- > 18 fresh bay shrimps, cleaned and deveined
- > 18 white fish pieces
- > 12 bay sea scallops
- > 1 cup mirepoix, diced and fully cooked
- > A handful of chopped fresh parsley

METHOD

- > To make the fish bisque, melt the butter in a saucepan.
- > Sauté all the vegetables in the butter with the saffron, add the Pernod and reduce until semi-dry.
- > Add the rest of the bisque ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes. Adjust the seasoning, and strain.
- > In a pot, bring the strained bisque liquid to a boil and turn it down to a simmer.

- > Add all the seafood and simmer for eight minutes or until the seafood is cooked and the mussels are open.
- > Add the mirepoix before dividing equal amounts of bisque and seafood between the bowls.
- > Garnish with parsley and serve piping hot.
